The area of high barometric pressure central over the south Atlantic states and the high over Lake Superior have joined together and cover the entire country between Lake Michigan and the Atlantic coast. The joining together of these two high areas has prevented the storm central over the northwest moving eastward, and as a result the weather will continue fair over this section during the next 36 hours.

During the past 24 hours light showers have fallen over portions of Missouri, Iowa, Arkansas and Florida; in all other states the weather has been fair.

The temperature has fallen from Wisconsin eastward to the Atlantic coast; it has risen or remained stationary in all other sections.

Local forecast for Toledo and vicinity for next 36 hours: Fair, slightly warmer.

PLATT OPENS

The Republican Campaign in New York,

And He Is Followed by Other Big Guns

Who Laud Their Party, and, of Course, Can See No Good in Democracy.

New York, Sept. 29.—The first republican mass meeting of the present presidential campaign in this city was held last night in Cooper Union. There were fully 3,000 persons inside the hall, all it could possibly hold, and twice that number without vainly seeking admittance. The hall itself was profusely decorated with American flags and on either side of the speakers stand were the German and Irish flags. Back of the platform hung oil portraits of Harrison and Reid draped with flags.

Chairman Brookfield, of the republican county committe, advanced to the speakers' platform and announced that he had been charged with the pleasant duty of introducing the chairman of the evening, "the distinguished, aggressive, the loyal republican, Thomas C. Platt." Mr. Platt's name was received with cheers, that increased in volume as he himself stepped forward to the speakers desk, and when the subsidence of the applause permitted him to do so, Mr. Platt spoke of the issues of the campaign and evoked applause by his witticisms. He held the attention of the audience until the end.

At the conclusion of Mr. Platt's speech, the prepared list of vice presidents and secretaries was presented and then Mr. Platt introduced "the next vice president of the United States, Whitelaw Reid." As Mr. Reid advanced to the reading desk the audience broke out in applause and as Mr. Reid stood smiling before them rose to their feet and cheered and cheered again and waved handkerchiefs and flags. Mr. Reid said: "A candidate was never more fortunately placed. Preceeded by Brookfield and Platt, to be followed by Warner Miller and with Chauncey Depew and Frank Hiscock on the platform in reserve, my speech is already made, and this is the opportunity of a lifetime for silence." Mr. Reid spoke of the work of the party and its prospects and said that he expected a majority in New York state for the republican ticket this fall.

When the applause that followed Mr. Reid's speech subsided, Mr. Platt introduced ex-Senator Warner Miller as the next speaker. In doing so Mr. Platt said that there was no one outside the breastworks now. "I was there myself," he said, "and I speak feelingly."

Mr. Miller, who was loudly cheered, spoke of the harmony in the party and alluded to a meeting held in the same building 32 years ago last February, at which William Cullen Bryant presided, and Abraham Lincoln was the orator of the evening.

The speake then entered into a sketch of President Lincoln's career and spoke of the achievements of the republican party from that period down to the present time.

He was followed by Chauncey M. Depew in a characteristic speech in which he swung a plate of tin and denounced tariff reform.

Mr. Depew, in a brilliant peroration, paid a glowing tribute to President Harrison.

The resolution adopted in substance declared that the republicans of New York were proud of their record and confident of the success of their party; that the laws had been ably administered by republican officials; that the industries of the country are flourishing under the republican policy of protection; that the products of farm and factory have increased by protection; that the merchant marine has been awakened to life and activity by protection; that the business of the country has adjusted itself in the lines of reciprocity and looks for continued prosperity in the same direction; that no patriotic American can wish for a change that would imperil the prosperity; that the industries should not be placed at the mercy of free traders; that the republicans are not satisfied with the guaranty of the democratic presidential candidate on the tariff question; that the republicans opposed the repeal of the McKinley act; that they believed in the continued use of American money; that President Harrison's letter was definite and positive as to his policy, while the democratic candidate sought to be obscure, and that they were proud of the noble, unclouded and honorable achievements of Benjamin Harrison and Whitelaw Reid. The resolutions concluded by pledging support to the republican national ticket.

MORE WHALEBACKS

To Compete With Railroad Steamers on the Lakes.

Regular Line Established From Chicago to Buffalo—General Marine News.

Chicago, Sept. 29.—The Inter-Ocean this morning says: "A fleet of whaleback steamers will enter into active competition next season with the railroad propeller lines between Chicago and Buffalo for the immense trade in merchandise, flour, pork and other heavy freights which form the bulk of the shipments between Chicago and the seaboard. Two steamers for this traffic are now already under construction by the American Steel Barge company at West Superior and five or six more will be commenced as soon as there is room in the whaleback yards at West Superior. These merchandise steamers are 265 feet long and 38 feet wide and will carry 100,000 bushels of wheat. The steamers for the Chicago-Buffalo trade will be launched next month. They have seven ports on each side, and will be so aranged that freight can be run in any part of the boat through these ports."

Riot at Buffalo.

Buffalo, N. Y., Sept. 29.—There was another riot this morning between the union and non-union lumber shovers, and three of the latter are badly injured. The affair occurred at Stewart's lumber yard at the foot of Genesee street.

The lumber vessel Arctic arrived at the yard and non-union men were put to work unloading her. A crowd of union men assembled and ordered the non-union men away. They refused to go and a fight followed.

The union men were armed with clubs and stones and used them with considerable effect. Charles Schroeder was stabbed in the neck and his skull probably fractured. Thomas Clark was also seriously hurt and a number of others received severe wounds.

The police restored order and arrested President McGovern of the lumber shovers' union and George Crowley, who are charged with inciting the riot.

Grain Boats Wanted.

Chicago, Sept. 29.—Shippers were wanting boats to-day and rates held firm at 2 1-4 cents for wheat to Buffalo.

Knill Elected.

London, Sept. 29.—Alderman Stuart Knill, of the bridge ward, against whom strong opposition has been raised on account of his being a Roman Catholic, was to-day elected lord mayor of London by the court of aldermen. The liverymen of the London companies, among whom there is a strong tinge of Orangeism, voted to recommend Alderman Phillips, a protestant, for th eoffice, but the court of aldermen rejected the choice and refused to depart from the regular order of because the aldermen whose turn it was to be lord mayor was a Catholic. A large crowd assembled outside the guild hall during the election and shouted: "No popery."

DEMOCRATIC BARBECUE

A Great Time at Shelbyville, Indiana.

Hon. A. E. Stevenson is on Hand

And Makes a Speech—Other Addresses by the Flower of the Party.

Shelbyville, Ind., Sept. 29.—The great democratic barbecue yesterday brought over 40,000 people from this and surrounding counties into the city. Hon. A. E. Stevenson, candidate for the vice-presidency, who arrived here from Cincinnati, was the principal speaker.

Eight speakers' stands had been erected, and all of them were occupied at the same time. The other speakers were Senator Turpie, Congressman Bynum, of Indiana, and Warner, of New York; Gen. John C. Black, ex-Gov. Gray; Hon. Lawrence T. Neal, of Ohio; Hon. James A. McKenzie, of Kentucky; Claude Matthews, candidate for governor; Congressman Holman, and a dozen other representative democrats of the country.

The city is so overrun with thieves, gamblers and pickpockets that the marshal has appealed to Chief Colbert of Indianapolis for assistance in giving protection. The pickpockets reaped a rich harvest on the incoming trains.

WRECK ON THE ERIE.

Two Men Killed and Twenty Cars Are Smashed.

Hornellsville, N. Y., Sept. 29.—A bad wreck occurred on the Erie at Adrian, last night, resulting in the death of two men and the desrtuction of about twenty cars.

An extra freight took the switch at Adrian to let regular 12 pass. When train 12 was by and a portion of the extra was out on the main track, train 84 following 12 struck the extra in the side, making a bad smashup. Fireman Newman of train 74, who lives here, was buried under the wreck and killed.

The wreck occurred in front of the station and the building was badly damaged by flying wreckage. An unknown stranger who was standing on the platform of the depot, was instantly killed by a flying timber. The track will not be cleared for several hours.

TERRIFIC EXPLOSION

Shakes Up the Passengers on a Western Train.

Fears That a Terrible Disaster Has Occurred,

And That Many Lives Have Been Lost, as Well as Millions of Dollars Worth of Property.

Aspen, Col., Sept. 29.—Reports of an accident that may be attended by frightful loss of life and millions of dollars worth of property were brought in by passengers on the Colorado Midland train which arrived shortly after 11:30 last night. The train was just approaching the long tunnel that pierces the Continental divide and had passed Busk station, when an explosion occurred that broke the dishes in the Pullman dining car and threw passengers from their berths, and almost throwing the train from the track.

It is known that 500 pounds of giant powder had just been put off by a local freight on the platform at Busk. After the explosion the conductor made several attempts to call up the operator at Busk at each station, but without success. There were about twenty-five people on the platform when the train pulled out of Busk, and all have certainly been killed if the surmises of the train crew are correct.

The tunnel is about 100 yards from the depot and must have been greatly damaged.

LYING IN STATE.

Gen. Husted's Remains Are Viewed by Many People.

His Faithful Servant Stays by His Master's Casket.

Peekskill, N. Y., Sept. 29.—Gen. Husted's remains lay in state here from 9 o'clock until 11 this morning. The ground around the residence was guarded by a detail of police.

The body lay in a handsome rosewood casket which was placed in the hall. Those who wished to view the remains passed in at the river side of the house and out the rear. At the head of the casket sat Sam, the colored servant of the late general.

James K. Apgar, who was clerk of the house under Mr. Husted, when the latter held the office of spekaer, assisted by a number of others, had charge of the arrangements this morning.

Quite a large number of citizens had reviewed the remains up to 11 o'clock. There are no mourning emblems about the house, crape being entirely absent from the door. In its stead is a large wreath of holly and violets suspended from the door bell.

CRUISER DISPATCHED.

To Relieve British Sealers Left in Siberia.

Montreal, Sept. 29.—A cablegram from London confirms the statement of Hon. C. H. Tupper that a British cruiser had been dispatched to Siberian waters. Her purpose is to relieve the sealers who were seized by Russian men-of-war, and who though released on the Siberian shores, are, it is feared, in a destitute condition.

The dispatch further says that Lord Roseberry already possess full information from the British side respecting the seizures and is now awaiting Russia's version.

FOSTER COMMUNICATES.

Toronto, Ont., Sept. 29.—At last night's session of the Pen-Presbyterian council a telegram was read from United States Secretary Foster, stating that the United States government was considering the proposition for prohibiting traffic in fire arms and liquor with the New Hebrides and had not refused to enter into such an agreement.

MILLIONS OFFERED.

An Old Land Claim Again Brought to the Front.

Dayton, Sept. 29.—By the arrival of William Edwards of Greensburg, South Carolina, in this city to see F. M. Compton, the attorney for Ralph and Philip Edwards of this city, the story of the $400,000,000 now involved in the Edwards estate in New York is revived. The story in brief is this: In 1783 King George III. of England leased 40 acres of ground from Robert Edwards. This ground now lies in the heart of New York city near Trinity church, and of course is now covered with valuable buildings. The lease was for 100 years and expired in 1883. In a short time after leasing the land, King George leased it to a man named Rowe. King George soon died and Rowe sold the land the same as if he owned it. The lease was not recorded in America, but in England, and the Americans who bought the land knew nothing of it. When the 100 years rolled by, the heirs of the Edward estate began to look up the lease. William Edwards, who came here to see the attorney of the other two Edwards heirs, who reside here, says that he found the original lease in an old Bible in South Carolina, where his grandfather settled years ago. He went to Europe last summer and got a certified copy of the lease from the queen's court. With this and other abundant proofs he claims that the case will soon be settled.

Robert G. Ingersoll of New York is attorney for the property owners who now encumber the 40 acres of land in New York. He has offered the Edwards heirs $250,000,000 for their claims. Hon. John J. Ingalls of Illinois, Col. Stewart of Kentucky, H. Clay King and Mr. Compton of this city are attorneys for the heirs. The shares of the Dayton heirs will be $250,000 each.

FILTHY CANALS.

Breeders of Disease and Death in Hamburg.

The Water in Them Has No Current

And Is Alive With Germs Breeding Disease—In Addition, Water Is Taken From the Elbe, Into Which Sewage Is Discharged.

London, Sept. 29.—The Times, reviewing its correspondent's investigation in the Hamburg calamity, says it was plainly due to preventable causes. Notwithstanding the generally accepted belief that Hamburg's sanitary system is woefully deficient, and that cleanliness is not one of the cardinal virtues of the city, the Times says that in some respects Hamburg has every reason to be proud of its sanitation. There is no poverty in the city, it adds, and no overcrowding, while the cleanliness of even the lower classes is exemplary. An efficient system of drainage exists, and the site and soil and general arrangements of the cemeteries are exceptionally good. But all this is outweighed by the monstrous evils which have been a crying shame for many years. Hamburg is encompassed by a dirty river on one side, and a dirty, stagnant lake on the other. A network of filthy canals connect with both the river and lake. The canals are utterly abominable. The water in them is black and motionless, covered with foul scum, while horrible bubbles burst here and there, throwing forth a terrible stench. Lofty buildings rising sheer from the polluted beds surround these canals and effectually impede the action of the air. The water ran low in August and putrid slime was left to swelter in the burning sun. The population was not content to live on a soil soaked with liquid nastiness and breathe air charged with poisonous emanations. In addition to this, their water supply is drawn from the Elbe, into which the sewage is discharged. This water, mixed with sewage, without a pretense of purification, is returned to the houses and reconsumed. Its passage through the waterworks only serves to make the nauseous abomination filthier and more noxious than before. The dirt of years clings to the pipes and settle in business, in which mussles, beetles, eels, crabs, snails, and worms make their homes. It may be added here, however, that since the outbreak of cholera the Hamburg authorities have made arrangements by which the city will be supplied with pure water by the Altona Water company and that when Elbe water is used now for drinking purposes it is thoroughly boiled.

SUICIDED IN CHURCH.

Driven to Death by Pain From Neuralgia.

The Suicide Shoots Himself While Sitting in the Pew He Occupied in the Church.

Philadelphia, Sept. 29.—An investigation was made by Coroner Ashbridge to-day into the suicide of John W. Donnelly, aged 55 years, a shoe dealer at 1438 Frankford avenue, who fired two bullets into his stomach while sitting in the pew of the East Baptist church, which he had occupied while living.

Donnelly was a severe sufferer from neuralgia, which drove him frantic at times. Yesterday the suffering man walked into the church at Hanover street and Girard avenue and finding the doors open, entered. Sitting down in the pew he fired the fatal bullet.

Workmen who were working on the church rushed to the scene and found the suicide just expiring. The dead man leaves a widow and three children. He was prominently identified with the Grand Army of the Republic, having been chaplain of Newhall post, No. 7.

SMUGGLER FOILED

And Obliged to Leave a Cargo of Opium Outside of the United States.

San Francisco, Sept. 29.—H. C. Adams, of Honolulu, who arrived here a few days ago, says the smuggler Halcyon landed her cargo of opium at Diamond Head, Honolulu.

The Halcyon sailed from Victoria about a month ago with a corgo of opium and a number of Chinese.

She attempted to land the Chinese near Monterey, Cal., but they were captured by customs officers. The Halcyon could not land her opium in the United States owing to the vigilance of the officers and so took it to Honolulu.

DEATH OF A BANKER.

Buffalo, N. Y., Sept. 29.—Stephen M. Clement, president of the Marine bank of this city, who was stricken with paralysis last Thursday, died this morning.

Mr. Clement was born in the township of Manlius, Onondaga county, February 26, 1825. In 1855 he went to Fredonia as cashier of a local bank, and afterward became its president. In 1881 he was made president of the Marine bank of Buffalo. He was also president of the Merchants' National bank of Dunkirk, a director of the North American bank of New York, and of the First National bank of Faribault, Minn., and president of the Buffalo clearing house. Mr. Clement was also prominent in educational and charitable affairs.

SOCIAL LIEBKNECHT.

Expelled From France Because of His Expressed Views.

London, Sept. 29.—A dispatch to the Standard from Paris intimates that Herr Liebknecht, the German socialist, has received a hint that he had better shorten his stay in France. Her Liebknecht, in an interview, strongly condemned the Russian alliance as disgraceful to France, and predicted that Russia would play false.

He said he believed that war was far distant, because fighting would be too horrible and appalling by reason of the immense armies that would oppose each other. Herr Liebknecht added: "Some solution must, however, be found. Disarm France and Germany, otherwise the result will be famine and gigantic political and social catastrophe."

Paris, Sept. 29.—The Lyons correspondent of the Figaro says that yesterday Wilhelm Liebknecht, the German socialist democrat, who has been conspicuous in the labor congress in Marseilles, was conducted to the Swiss frontier and expelled from France.

FOUND DEAD.

Sudden End of An Adrian Man

Who Came to Toledo—Some Curious Facts in the Case.

H. S. Cole, a comparatively young married man living in Adrian, Michigan, was found dead in bed at the Hanner house late yesterday afternoon.

Cole registered early Tuesday evening, and immediately retired, without eating any supper. That was the last time he was seen alive. When the chambermaid attempted to get into his room in the afternoon she found the door locked and the transom closed. The day clerk was notified and he forced an entrance, and discovered Cole lying dead in bed in a recumbent position with a quiet and peaceful expression on his face. The dead man's clothes were carefully arranged on a chair and everything about the room was in order. Coroner Beckwith and the police department were made acquainted with the facts and the body afterwards taken to Couldwell's undertaking rooms and prepared for burial.

Telegrams were sent to the dead man's friends in Adrian, and at midnight Dr. Kirkpatrick, a distant relative by marriage, came to Toledo accompanied by a friend of the deceased. They viewed the body and identified it as that of H. C. Cole.

It was first thought that Cole committed suicide, but subsequent developments have negatived that presumption. He was subjected to heart disease and a spinal trouble. In addition to that he was somewhat dissipated, and was under the influence of liquor at the time he left Adrian Tuesday morning.

When the body was first discovered there was considerable froth about the mouth, but there were no bottles, no papers in the room which would indicate that Cole had poisoned himself.

Coroner Beckwith held an inquest this morning, and after examining the Adrian people who came here after the body he decided that the deceased come to his death from heart disease, precipitated by dissipation. The remains were shipped to Adrian at 9:30 o'clock.

Cole leaves a wife, child and mother. He had been employed in Adrian as a pressman, but no reason can be given for his sudden departure. The clerk says that when he registered at the Hanner house he was apparently sober.

GRIP OF MONOPOLY.

Sugar Trust Boycott on a Dealer.

The Discriminate Against Him Because He Refused to Raise the Price.

Boston, Sept. 29.—The Advertiser says: The American Sugar Refining company, otherwise the sugar trust, has been flagrantly violating the federal anti-trust law in its dealings with M. P. Longley, a Lynn grocer, who does $200,000 worth of business every year and whose credit is unquestionable.

The sugar trust has boycotted Mr. Longley so that for days at a time he has been unable to supply his customers with sugar. It has done this because he proposes to retail sugar at 5 cents a pound instead of 6, the card price which the trust imposes on retail dealers.

District Attorney Allen assures the Advertiser that if, upon examination, the evidence against the trust proves adequate prosecution will follow. He will examine into the case at once.

MRS. HARRISON BETTER.

Her Condition Seems To Be Steadily Improving.

Washington, Sept. 29.—Dr. Gardner, after visiting Mrs. Harrison this morning said she was slightly stronger, that she had rested easily during the night, and felt refreshed from the sleep she obtained. The usual liquid nourishment was given her.

It is thought around the white house that the patient is better than when she left Loon Lake, but whether the rally will be permanent, non venture an opinion. The president is attending to some business now and matters have a brighter look.

PECK'S CASE.

The Police Court Hearing Postponed at Albany.

Albany, N. Y., Sept. 29.—On account of the absence of Mr. Meegan, counsel for Mr. Peck, the case against Mr. Peck which was to have been heard in police court this morning was postponed for one week.

CARNEGIES MAY CLOSE DOWN.

Pittsburg, Pa., Sept. 29.—A well-founded rumr is in circulation in Homestead to-day that the big plant of the Carnegie Steel company will shut down this week. The 23-inch armor plate mill was indefinitelyA closed down to-day and the men laid off. The officials of the company refuse to talk about the matter and their evasive answers to questions make it appear that the report is true.

MRS. PARNELL ILL.

London, Sept. 29.—Mrs. Parnell, widow of the late Charles Stewart Parnell, is reported to be seriously ill at Worthing.

BRIGHT PROSPECTS

For An End of the Cholera Scare.

New York Free From the Pest.

The Work at the Quarantine—A Number of Vessels Still Tied Up.

New York, Sept. 29.—The health board this morning reports no cholera in this city. Last night there were two suspicious deaths from symptoms resembling those of cholera. They are being investigated, but as Dr. Wilson, the chief of the health board, says, they will doubtless turn out to have been caused by acute cholera morbus.

At Quarantine.

Quarantine, Sept. 29.—Dr. Jenkins, accompanied by Dr. Waiser and several deputies, left for Hoffman island at 11 o'clock to see that the island was set in order for the Bohemia's passengers, who will be landed there now that the Scandia's people are out of the way. The 11 o'clock bulletin from Swinburne island was as follows:

"Nothing new on Bohemia. Sick patients still improving."

The Scandia is still at aonchor off quarantine, but expects to leave for Baltimore to-day. She will unload her cargo at that port.

The Slavonia, of the Hamburg line, which arrived this morning from Hamburg, has no steerage passengers. The Dania, of the same line, was sighted this morning. The Gothia is expected to arrive to-day.

A dozen trans-Atlantic steamers lie off the upper quarantine station this morning. The Cunarder Gallia from Liverpool, the White Cross steamer DeRuyter from Antwerp, the France of the National line and the Manhaset from Swansea having been added to the list.

The Hamburg steamer Bohemia still remains in quarantine in the lower bay. The steamboats George Starr and Hazel Kirk, having on board steerage passengers of the Scandia, went up the bay to Ellis Island at 10 o'clock this morning.

Passengers Released.

Boston, Sept. 29.—Sixty of the detained 186 so-called American passengers on the steamer Marathon at quarantine, were released yesterday afternoon. The larger number of the sixty are Irish and all hold through tickets to New York. The other 126 came up to-day. They have no complaint to make of their treatment at quarantine.

SENATOR MILLS' CONDITION.

Corsicana, Tex., Sept. 29.—Senator Mills' condition was worse last night. He may be unable to take further active part in the campaign.

LOCKED OUT GRANITE CUTTERS.

Milford, Mass., Sept. 29.—The locked-out granite cutters of Norcross Bros.' yards, having voted not to return to work, if the non-union men were allowed to remain, were notified by the firm yesterday that no settlement can be made except on the lines of the Quincy settlement as regards non-union discrimination, apprentices and arbitration.

THE FIRST VERDICT

In the Noted Tunnel Wreck Cases Is a Corker.

The Jury Gives John H. Conway $21,583.25 and Holds the Lake Shore Wholly Responsible.

The first verdict in the tunnel wreck cases pending in common pleas court at Monroe was rendered yesterday, and it was probably the largest ever returned by a jury in a damage case tried in that court.

It was the case of John H. Conway against the Lake Shore and Flint & Pere Marquette railroad companies, and the Lake Shore alone was held responsible in the sum of $21,583.25. The amount claimed was $25,000.

Conway is a man 23 years of age and lives at Millville, Mass. He was en route home from college at Ann Arbor at the time of the wreck and was scalded about the throat and lungs. When he escaped from the car he stood out in the cold for two hours before being taken to the hospital. When he returned home consumption developed, which rendered him wholly unable to attend to any business.

The F. & P. M. in defense set up that when their trains entered the Lake Shore yards they were under the direction of the management of that company; that the men passed from the employe of the F. & P. M to the Lake Shore, and were subject to the rules and regulations laid down.

The case, of course, will be appealed to supreme court. The next case will be tried next November.

MINE CAVE-IN.

Ten Men Entombed in the East Norrie.

They May be Saved or They May be Drowned.

Detroit, Mich., Sept. 29.—A special to the News from Bessemer, Mich., says: A cave-in occurred at the East Norrie mine at Ironwood at 4 o'clock this morning. Ten men are entombed, and it is impossible to tell at this writing whether they can be rescued alive.

The mine is surrounded by weeping and frantic women and relatives and the scenes are pitiful. Hundreds of men are working to rescue their companions. The company is driving pipes to get air to the men. If the water in the mine does not raise and drown the men they may be rescued. Voices can be heard at intervals.

BIG VERDICT AGAINST A STREET RAILWAY.

Buffalo, N. Y., Sept. 29.—Henry L. Pfeffer to-day in the superior court secured a verdict of $20,000 against the Buffalo Street Railway company. Both his feet were amputated last spring, the result of being run over by a trolley car.

MAINE ELECTION FIGURES.

Augusta, Me., Sept. 29.—The official figures of the gubernatorial vote at the last election, every city, town and plantation included, give Cleaves, 67,585; Johnson, 55,073; Massey (pro.), 3,781; Knowlton (labor), 1,660; Bateman, people's party, 3,005; scattering, 17. Total, 129,629; Cleave's plurality, 12,512.

KILLED IN HONDURAS.

Fargo, N. D., Sept. 29.—The wife and son of Gen. Brubaker, leader of the insurrectionists in British Honduras, have received news of his death. Gen. Brubaker was captured by the government forces and sh

NANCY HANKS AGAIN

Lowers Her Already Wonderful Trotting Record.

Mile in 2:04 on a Circular Track,

At Terre Haute—The Greatest Feat Ever Witnessed on the Turf.

Terre Haute, Ind., Sept. 29.—Nothing that Nancy Hanks does in the way of speed seems to be surprising, so when she placed the world's record at 2:04 yesterday afternoon the big crowd was quite prepared for the feat. The day was the warmest of the week, and bright and clear, and the track had received careful preparations last night for the queen's supreme effort.

It was nearly 5 o'clock when Budd Doble and the famous mare came out for the trial, and an assemblage of about 10,000 enthusiastic spectators greeted them with loud applause. After scoring with Nancy several times Doble took her clear up around the turn to get under full headway. When Starting Judge Frank Welker said "Go," in response to a nod from Doble, she was trotting at a rate that carried her to the eighth in 15 1-2 seconds. When the quarter was made in 31 seconds everybody with a watch felt that something wonderful was at hand. Up the back stretch there was no perceptible change, though the second quarter was slower, the half being made in 1:02 3-4. That was the record breaking speed for circular track, but the sensation was to come.

Along the straight to the third quarter the peerless mare came at a clip and made the earlier part of the mile seem slow, taking only 29 1-2 seconds to cover the distance. She came without a falter, moving like well regulated clock-work, with Doble helping her, and the pacemaker a length behind.

Starter Welker requested everybody to keep still until the mare finished, but he had scarcely finished speaking when her nose was even with the wire, and the watches stopped at 2:04 flat, a figure once deemed utterly beyond the power of any horse that trotted or paced.

Every one knew that all records were swept away before President Ijams made the announcement, and, as the crowd yelled itself hoarse, scores of excited men rushed out on the track to congratulate the clever reinsman who had placed the queen of the turf on a still higher pedestal. Mr. Ijams finally got a hearing, and in a brief speech said:

"Terre Haute claims Nancy Hanks and Budd Doble as well. The feat just accomplished is beyond what has ever before been done in harness. The kite track is not in it."

He concluded by announcing the time by quarters. When he ended by stating the official time as 2:04, there were loud calls for Doble, who stood beside him in the judges' stand. The clever Chicago driver bowed his acknowledgements, unable to say anything.

Nancy Hanks trotted her third quarter at a 1:58 clip, this marvellous flight enabling her to make the last half in 1:01 1-4.

The mare seemed about as fresh when she finished as at the start, and could probably have increased the rate a little bit the last half.

Scarcely was the sensation over when George Starr, taking advantage of the smooth track, sent Monbars to beat his record of 2:14 3-4, made at Columbus last Saturday. The colt was in great form, and lowered the record for 3-year-old stallions, previously held by Axtell, trotting the mile in 2:11 3-4. His fractioned time was 33 3-4, 1:07 1-4, 1:39 3-4, and the last quarter in 32 seconds.

This was scarcely noticed, however, after the greater event that had preceded it.

Terre Haute is given up completely to Nancy, and she can have anything in the town, even the court house. Everybody sings the praises of the wonderful little mare.

AFRICAN SLAVE TRADE.

It Is Still Carried On to a Large Extent.

Great Raids on the Tribes of the Interior—Terrible Mortality of the Slaves.

Marseilles, Sept. 29.—According to advices from Aden, the slave trade in Africa continues on a large scale. Owing to the demand for slaves and the high prices offered for them slave caravans are arriving on the east coast daily. The caravans find no difficulty in traveling through Vitu.

The slaves are embarked at points in the vicinity of Zeylah, Massowah, Djibontil and Suakim. In exchange for the slaves the traders accept nothing but modern fire-arms and ammunition.

The mortality among the slaves while en route to the coast from the interior is 70 per cent. Raids on a still larger scale are expected during the winter in the region of the Congo state and German and English East Africa.

Take Hood's and only Hood's, because Hood's Sarsaparilla Cures. It possesses merit peculiar to itself. Try it yourself.

Hood's Pills are purely vegetable, perfectly harmless, effective, but do not cause pain or gripe. Be sure to get Hood's.

BRYAN WATER WORKS.

Bryan, Sept. 29.—(Special)—Contractors of the new water works buildings have been delayed with their work for a few days past on account of not receiving stone. It is expected that several cars of stone will arrive to-morrow. Pipe laying commenced yesterday. They expect to put in about two blocks of pipe per day when they get started rightly. Well boring is at a standstill on account of making arrangements to change location of wells, there being an insufficient supply of water where the two wells were bored at the building near the C., J. & M. depot.

SPORT AT UPPER SANDUSKY.

Upper Sandusky, O., Sept. 29.—A half-mile bicycle race was run at the fair here yesterday. The contestants were Placee and Simons, of Lima; Van Tine, of Findlay, and Hemmerly, of Marion. Van Tine won the first prize, a suit of clothes, and Simons second, a King of the Road lantern. Time, 1:52. The track was four inches thick with dust. In a championship base ball game the Forest club was done up 18 to 2 by the Sycamore club.

CATHOLIC SCHOOLS OUT.

Eugene Newman is attending a rifle tournament at Chicago.

WOOD COUNTY FAIR.

Big Crowds on the Grounds at Bowling Green.

Some Good Races—Plenty of Fine Exhibits—Notes of the Exhibition.

Bowling Green, O., Sept. 29.—(Special)—The 11th annual Wood county fair opened yesterday with a rush. The crowd was large for the first day and the races good. The grand stand has a 50-foot addition built on, which is a decided improvement. The buildings have been newly painted and everything has a bright cheery appearance. The several departments are all filled with interesting exhibits, and with good weather the fair will certainly prove a big winner.

The Races.

Three-year-old trot, purse $100 was a walk away for Geo. Ketcham's Nyanza. She won it in three straight heats—time, 2:03 2.31 1-2; 2:30.

Senator, from Oak Ridge Stock Farm, Deerfield, Michigan, took second money, and Sam Salisbury, third.

Second race—2:30 trot—three starters—was the most exciting race of the day. It was won by Tempest in 3 straights, with Red Cedar a very close second. Time, 2:31 1-4; 2.32 1-4; 2:33 1-2. Maggie S took third money.

Third race—Two-year-olds—trotting or pacing—purse $25—7 entries. This race was of unusual interest to the farmers in this vicinity, as all the entries were local. After several attempts to start, objection was made by one of the drivers to certain horses in the race, claiming they were over two years old. After examination of all horses, looking in their mouths, feeling their knee joints, they were all declared two years old (?) and the race proceeded. Troas won the race. Time 3.16; 3:14 1-2. Buckeye Boy took second money; balance of horses were distanced.

A. B. Chase, Pianos and Organs.

This exhibit occupies a conspicuous space in the art hall, and well deserves the attention it is receiving. Mr. E. G. Doane is well and favorably known in and around Bowling Green as a leader in his line. He also handles a full line of sewing machine goods. His place of business is opposite the Ross house. Give him a call.

Horse Goods.

The exhibit of harness, robes, blankets, etc., by C. T. Pope is especially interesting to all interested in that line. Mr. Pope personally superintends all work turned out at his store, and the fact that he has not had $3 worth of repairs on guaranteed work in the last four years is sufficient proof that the quality of his goods is A1.

A Positive Fact.

D. C. Pelton's Carbon Gas Burner is bound to be the fuel of the future. With this clever device no one need fear a shortage of gas; it works on the same principle as a gasoline stove, only the heat obtained from the oil used is much more intense.

A large number of Toledo people now using natural gas have contracted to use the Carbon Burner in its stead. See the exhibit, and for further particulars address D. C. Pelton, Trombley, O.

Wheeler & Wilson Sewing Machines.

The agents of this enterprising company together with several assistants, are entertaining a crowd at their exhibit in the main building. The topic of conversation at all times is the High Arm, No. 9, and if you can get near enough it will pay you to see the excellent work it does.

Ti-day.

An ideal day and an immense throng of people assure the second day of the Wood county fair a success.

The beautiful grounds are one bed of vehicles and at noon there were not less than 25,000 people on the grounds.

A double marriage performed by Justice J. H. Battles, of Bowling Green, on the grounds this morning, was one of the chief features of to-day's program. The couples were Fred Byers and Annie McMahon, of Plain township, and Milo M. Lybarger and Clara B. Atkinson, of Tontogany. The young people were given the freedom of the grounds, as was also Justice Battles.

The exhibit of horses this morning was excellent. In English draft stallions L. L. Andrus, Bloomdale, got first, and Ash & Co., Weston, second prizes. In English draft stallions W. E. Warner, West Millgrove, first, and F. J. Hendricks, second. The other exhibits were much superior to those generally exhibited at a fair.

Fair Notes.

The Ketcham farm is well represented.

Saturday will be a big day for the races.

Prof. Will Stackhouse is delighting his many friends by his playing; he has charge of the C. J. Woolley exhibit and is ably assisted by Mr. A. D. Scammel.

J. V. Newton, of Toledo, has his yearling roadster stallion entered in the live stock department.

A number of the O. Y. C. and Cadets will attend the fair to-morrow and be banqueted in the evening by L. L. Yonker, adjutant general uniform rank, Knights of Pythias.

Mrs. Gus Leibius, Mrs. Marshall and Mrs. Will Stackhouse are among the Toledo visitors.

There are over 100 entries in the live stock department and still a-coming.

One noticeable feature is the absence of the fakirs; their places are taken up by an extra importation of merry-go-rounds.

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. H. Ketcham are the guests of Mrs. J. G. Hickox.

The entertainment committee have arranged for a balloon ascension and parachute jump for the last three days of the week.

The Pemberville cornet band furnished the music for to-day.

There are several bicycle and foot races on the program; they will be announced later.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Wayne are doing a nice business at the opera house; they deserve it, too, for their company is way above the average.

Friday is political day. Hon. J. H. Logan, of Alliance, O., will deliver an address and the Delta Glee club will furnish music.

BAND OF MASKED RUFFIANS.

Johnson City, Tenn., Sept. 29.—The band of masked ruffians which long terrorized Sevier county is now tormenting Cocke county. A few nights ago they broke into a negro's house, shot his wife and told him that the same would be his fate unless he quit the country. An aged woman, who lived alone, was driven from her house, of which the contents were wrecked. Citizens are planning their capture.

EMBEZZLER SENTENCED.

Boston, Sept. 29.—Fred M. Phillips, the cashier of George W. Simmons & Co., who embezzled several thousand dollars belonging to the firm a year ago, was sentenced yesterday afternoon to pay a fine of $500 and also to two years' imprisonment in the house of correction.

NO CHOLERA.

Washington, Sept. 29.—The United States consul at Naples, Italy, cables: "Cholera in Naples officially denied. Health perfect."

BIG GUN.

An Immense Piece of Ordnance Nearing Completion.

Washington, Sept. 29.—The last of the jackets has been slipped over the breech of the thirteen-inch gun at the Washington navy yard and the immense piece of ordnance is now nearing completion. The work is one of more than usual intrest and every step is being carefully watched by Capt. Sampson, the inspector in charge at the yard. The gun will be the largest ever made in this country by the built up process. This modern steel rifle is made of thirteen separate pieces of metal, exclusive of the complex carriage. Its total length is forty feet, its diameter at the breech is an inch more than four feet and it tapers to a thickness of twenty-one inches at the muzzle. When finished the gun will weigh nearly 158,000 pounds. It requires more than a quarter of a ton of powder to load it for one discharge, but that quantity is expected to hurl a shell weighing 1,000 pounds a distance of twelve or thirteen miles at the extraordinary velocity of 2,100 feet per second. When finished its construction will have occupied six months, but better time can be made with the other guns of this calibre that are to be built.

AFTER THE BLACKS.

British Troops Will Try to Suppress the Mountain Tribes of India.

Simla, Sept. 29.—The force under command of Col. Sir W. Lockhart started on its trans-Indus campaign yesterday from Allahabad, preceded by a corps of sappers, who will make a road for the expedition trough the Susul pass. The ostensible object of the expedition is to restore peace among the black mountain tribes.

The British have had frequent trouble with these tribesmen and in 1888 inflicted severe punishment on them. Again last year the natives became unruly and the Indian government found it necessary to punish them. Since then they have refused to surrender to the British the fomenter of the trouble, a chief named Hashim Ali, though they agreed to do so.

Some of the Indian newspapers have urged the government to put an end to the constant irritation caused by the Black mountain tribes by annexing the district outright. Col. Lockhart's force consists of 5,000 mixed British and Indian troops.

UNITED STATES AND CANADIAN BOUNDARIES.

Ottawa, Ont., Sept. 29.—The government has been advised that Mr. Mendenhall, superintednent of the coast and geodetic survey of the United States, has been appointed commissioner to determine, in conjunction with W. F. King, Canadian commissioner, the boundaries between Alaska and Canada and between the United States and Canada in Passamaquoddy bay. An early meeting will be held soon.

COURT OF INQUIRY

Into Some Doings of the Militia of Iowa.

Dubuque, Ia., Sept. 29.—The first militia court of inquiry that has been held in this state for many years will open this afternoon, and the members of the court, Judge Advocate General Jaques, Majors Leker, and Eland, and Captain Emery, are all in the city.

The court will investigate the charges against Captain Thrift, assault upon Private Backer, which took place in the Governor's Grays' armory about six weeks ago. Becker's offense was that he had voted for one Glon Brown, of Dubuque, for Major. The court will also investigate the action of the Waverly company in passing resolutions denouncing Thrift. The matter has created considerable of a stir in military circles and no matter what may be the outcome of the court the affair is likely to seriously impair discipline in the local militia.

THE CHAMPION ENJOINED

From Giving an Exhibition at Rochester, New York.

Rochester, N. Y., Sept. 29.—The Corbett exhibition here last night was a most unholy fake, not through any fault of Champion Jim, however. Two injunctions were served on Manager Brady in the afternoon at an hour when it was hardly possible for Brady to circumvent the injunctions by a legal process. G. W. Heberling, of this city, was the cause of the first injunction, and H. R. Jacobs, the theatrical manager, the second. A disappointed crowd saw Corbett pose and heard him speak and had to be satisfied. Brady has decided to begin civil action against both parties that caused the serving of the injunctions.

AFTER THE DRUMMERS.

Chicago, Sept. 29.—Over one thousand commercial travelers, or "drummers," will start on a pilgrimage to Washington this evening for the purpose of paying their respects to President Harrison. This custom was inaugurated four years ago when the Commercial and Traveling Men's Republican club made the trip to Indianapolis and were addressed by Gen. Harrison, then the republican candidate. The president has intimated his readiness to address the traveling men on Saturday, and the organization will have his speech printed and distributed among traveling men throughout the country.

A NEW TRUSTEE.

London, Sept. 29.—The failure of Adamson, Bell & Co., tea merchants of London, China, Japan and New York, and who failed about a year ago for over $1,000,000, was brought up in court again today on the motion for the appointment of a trustee in the place of Mr. Arthur Cooper, who recently died. E. E. Fletcher was selected. It was stated that the estate will probably be wound up in three or four months, but that the individual creditors would not succeed one shilling on the pound, or five cents to the dollar.

SOUTH CAROLINA REPUBLICANS.

Columbia, S. C., Sept. 29.—A large number of republicans from all over the state are assembled here in view of holding a state convention to nominate a state ticket. Thomas B. Johnson, collector of Charleston, is regarded as an available candidate for governor. Sixty-five thousand negroes are registered, and if they can be induced to vote they can elect Johnson owing to the lack of interest that usually prevails among the whites at a general election. Johnson is popular with all classes, liberal and wealthy.

A COLUMBIAN RECEPTION.

Madrid, Sept. 29.—Senor Canovas del Castillo, the prime minister, gave a reception yesterday to the delegates to the Columbus exhibition, the members of the diplomatic corps, the ministers and the municipal authorities.

The Caravels Nina and Pinta have been completed and are now at anchor in the harbor at Barcelona, whence they will be towed to Huelva by an American warship.

NEWMARKET HANDICAP.

London, Sept. 29.—The Newmarket October handicap of ten sovereigns each, with 400 added, was won to-day by Baron De Hirsch's 3-year-old colt Windgall, by Galliard out of Windsor. The 3-year-old bay colt, His Honour, was second, and Col. North's 3-year-old chestnut colt Thessalian, by Wisdom, out of Prickles, was third.

PACIFIC VOLCANOES.

San Francisco, Sept. 29.—Advices from Ounalaska state that the steamer St. Paul from San Francisco reported sailing August 28 through black clouds for four hours. Lamps had to be lighted. When the steamer emerged several inches of volcanic dust covered the decks. The nearest active crater is 265 miles away and it is thought that a new island has emerged from the sea as did Bogasuuf island, six years ago.

BROKE HER SHAFT.

London, Sept. 29.—The African mail steamship Ella Woerman, of Hamburg, was disabled in the bay of Biscay by the breaking of her shaft, and had to be towed into Portland. Both crew and passengers are well.

NOTICE.

Jane Scott, Elenora S. Scott, Henry I. Scott, Israel S. Scott and Marion J. Scott, who reside at the city of Troy in the county of Rensselaer and state of New York, will take notice that on the 21st day of September, 1892, John B. Kohne, as administrator of the estate of Henry Haase, deceased, filed his petition in the Probate Court of Lucas County, Ohio, praying that he be authorized to sell the following described real estate for the payment of the debts of said decedent, to-wit: The south 20 acres of the east half of the southwest quarter, of section number twenty-six, town nine, south of range eight, east; also thirteen and one-half acres of land described as follows: The south fourteen acres of the west half of the southwest quarter of section number twenty-six, town nine, south of range eight, east, excepting therefrom a strip of land one rod wide extending across the whole south side of said last above described parcel of land; being the strip heretofore conveyed to the Manhattan Iron Company. All said land being in Oregon Township, Lucas County, Ohio.

The said petition further alleges that Mary Haase is the widow of said decedent and as such is entitled to dower in all the aforesaid real estate and prays the court to set off and assign the same to her.

WONDERS.

Four Which Are Most Certainly Amazing.

Something Which Has Set a Great Many Tongues Talking

And Will Greatly Please and Particularly Interest You.

Wonders will never cease. The writer having had four of these wonders come under his personal knowledge, deems them of enough importance to be placed before the readers of this paper.

So many people know David Noyes of Manchester, N. J., that his own words will be strongest: "I suffered from heart disease for six years," he said, "and for the past two years was unable to do any work whatever. I was told by my physician that I never could get well. I was also paralyzed on the right side, from the hip down; and suffered severely with lumbago, and a trembling of the hands. I am now taking the seventh bottle of Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy, and feel entirely cured of all these troubles, and feel like a well man. It is the grandest medicine ever made, and all my friends are amazed at the cure."

The second wonder, Mr. Michael Crowley of 74 Laight street, New York city, will tell in his own way: "I was suffering from inflammatory rheumatism, and could not eat or sleep, and doctor's prescriptions had no effect to relieve me. After taking two bottles of Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy, I can eat and sleep well, and I think it has saved my life. I am getting better every day. One week ago I could not walk, now I can walk a mile. It is a wonderful medicine."

The third wonder, S. A. Dysart of Nortondale, N. B., will tell himself: "For the benefit of those who may be suffering and fail to find relief, I desire to state my case. For over a year I suffered from a heart disease, a constant pain, with severe attacks of palpitation, until I anticipated a sudden death at any time. I became weak and debilitated, with a loss of energy, despondency, etc. Hearing Dr. Greene lecture, he so faithfully described my condition that I determined to try Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy. My improvement has been continuous and rapid. I have taken five bottles, and the pain and palpitation are gone. I sleep well, have an excellent appetite and feel well."

The fourth wonder is presented by Mrs. F. G. Hicks of 32 Avenue A, Vick park, Rochester, N. Y. She says: "I give this testimonial for the benefit of others. I had given up all hope of being cured; had doctored and tried everything. My trouble was neuralgia of the stomach. Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy was recommended to me. I took six bottles of it. It perfectly cured me, and I earnestly recommend it to all."

Now, when it is considered that this remarkable medicine is purely vegetable and harmless, and for sale by all druggists at $1.00, it seems strange that so many people should unnecessarily suffer from the pains and weakness of disease when this sure and positive cure is within the reach of all.

It is the discovery and prescription of the eminent physician, Dr. Greene, of 35 W. 14th street, New York, who is without doubt the most successful specialist in curing nervous and chronic complaints. He can be consulted free, personally or by letter.

THE CITY KINDERGARTENS.

They Are All Full of Happy Little Ones.

A Bee visited the different kindergartens of the city this morning and found them all full of happy, busy children.

The first one visited was the free kindergarten at the Adams street mission, where some 25 poor little waifs under the kind care of the principal, Mrs. Cunningham, are being taught and civilized.

There are some sad cases here, the kindergarten being the only bright spot in their cheerless little lives.

In the kindergarten in the Industrial school on Ontario street, Miss Alice Sturges has the care of little ones, even more poverty-stricken and forlorn than those in the Adams street school.

Here are children whose only food is the nice warm meal they are given every day at the school.

In the Misses Law's kindergarten on Tenth street, is found a different and pleasanter phase of childhood. Here are the children of well-to-do parents, receiving the foundation for the higher education, and they are as perfect pictures of healthy, happy childhood as can be found in the whole country.

The Misses Law have three schools, two on Tenth street in charge of Misses Mary and Cora Law, and one at the corner of Fulton street and Ashland avenue, conducted by Miss Emma Law.

In the primary department of the Tenth street school, Miss Chesney, of Denver, who is visiting in the city, was a guest this morning.

Miss Chesney is at present engaged in kindergarten work in Denver, and has had charge of mission kindergartens in Chicago.

She says the work done in missions is much more satisfactory to the teacher, as the advancement in the class of children sent to these schools is much more noticeable.

She is much pleased with the kindergartens in Toledo.

Our people will welcome them to the city, and no doubt will give them liberal patronage.

Great Sport Ahead.

Gen. Slevin and J. Cooper Price are out over the Toledo, Kansas City & St. Louis railroad to-day hunting a hickory nutting ground for the enjoyment of the Adams street mission and kindergarten children and their parents 10 days hence.

Senior Class Officers.

The class of '93 is perfecting its organization and getting down to the hard studies of the year. The class is among the largest for years, numbering 100, of which the young men number a goodly proportion. At the election of officers the following were chosen: President, Carl Kellar; vice-president, Mary Whittaker; treasurer, Jesse Spore. The secretary has not yet been selected.

Death From Heart Disease.

An old resident of Adams township, named Leonard Townsend, was found dead in his bed yesterday at the Brown farm, beyond the new city park on Bancroft street. He had lived there for many years and at the time of his death was supposed to be about 56 years old. Heart disease was the cause of death.

Lost Their Sea Legs.

Chas. Linzy ad I. Chritchard, two Detroit sailors, were arrested in Toledo today as they were unsteadily bowling along the streets with three sheets in the wind. After mess call in the morning the police court judge may ask them to cast an anchor at Superintendent Brown's for a few days.

Police Court Docket.

In police court this morning the following drunks were disposed of: Patrick Dougheny, costs; John Wheeler, $5 and costs; David Harris, one hour to leave the city; John Filben, costs; Freda Myers was fined $1 and the costs for assault and battery, and William Berry was fined $5 and costs for the same offense.

Increasing Membership

The International Association of Machinists held a meeting at Turley's hall last night and received and considered six applications for membership.

The association is rapidly increasing its membership, new members being initiated at nearly every meeting.

They will give a grand hop sometime during the winter.

More Contagious Diseases.

The following cases have been reported to the health office since yesterday: Typhoid fever in the rear of 233 South Railroad avenue and at 419 Nebraska avenue; scarlet fever at the corner of Dix and South streets; membraneous croup at 756 Nebraska avenue and diphtheria at 513 Monroe street and on Foulks street in East Toledo.

Will Find Themselves in Jail.

Complaint has been made at police headquarters that a lad named William McSweeney, in company with several other boys, is in the habit of loitering about the corner of Segur and Maumee avenues and insulting the school teachers and scholars as they pass by. The department has taken steps to abate the nuisance.

A Flourishing Union.

Carpenters' union, No. 25, is perhaps in as good if not better financial condition than any other labor organization in the city. The dues of members amounts to $300 monthly, and the death benefit is for that amount.

The meeting last night was devoted solely to the transaction of routine and financial business, the receipts of the evening being $80.

After the Summer Vacation.

The number of girls and women who apply for positions as domestic help at the Free Employment office is increasing, owing to the return of many of them from summer resorts where they have been employed in hotels and boarding houses. This influx of domestics means more competent help for Toledo housekeepers, and Superintendent Smith is placing a large number of them in good positions.

Union Meeting of the King's Daughters.

The union meeting of the King's Daughters will be held in the parlors of the Central Congregational church, corner Adams and Tenth streets, Tuesday, October 4, at 2:30 p. m. The vice president from each church is expected to give a brief report of the work done by the circles in her church since April, 1892. A full attendance is especially desired, as, at the request of the central council, nominations for state secretary will b emade at that time.

No 11 to Be Reorganized.

The Internatoinal Machinists' union, No. 11, has not been as thoroughly organized as is desired, though it is strong numerically.

Now that Mr. Morse, the general secretary, is in the city, an effort will be made to perfect the organization already effected, and a meeting for that purpose will be held this evening in Carpenters' hall.

The organizing committee of the Central Labor union, the members of Machinists' union, No. 11, and Secretary Morse will be present.

Expected Circuit Court Decision.

On next Saturday morning at 9:30 the circuit court will hand down opinions in the following cases, with several others on which the court is working:

650—Chase v. Hunter, treas.
677—McDonald v. Hunter, treas.
681—Stevenson v. Hunter, treas.
683—Gitsky v. State.
679—Farrell Foundry & Machine Co. v. Peter.
583—Flickinger v. Lawton.
637—Waite v. Rigby.
614—Salisbury v. Fenneberger.
Northwestern Gas. Co. v. Sheibley.

Around the Orient.

Mr. Sayles, the Evangelist who has been conducting special evangelistic services at the Fifth Presbyterian church in this city, bringing to his aid a first-class stereopticon, will this evening give the account of his trip around the Orient, showing over 100 collosal views, illustrating accurately the most magnificent cities, edifices, scenery, industries, costumes and social life in the countries of Greece, Turkey, Syria, Palestine and Egypt, dwelling specially upon scenes in Bible lands.

The Day Nursery Company.

The meeting of the Day Nursery company will be held at the nursery Saturday, October 1, at 2 p. m. The books will then be ready for the signatures of members.

Any person can become a member by the payment of $1 annually. No person can become a trustee or vote for the trustees except they become a member.

A full attendance is desired, as the final reports of the officers of the old organization will be given, and the trustees elected and qualified. The meeting will be called to order at 2 o'clock promptly so as to give time for all business to be considered.

Dr. W. C. Isherwood

Mr. F. P. Isherwood received a telegram at noon announcing that his brother, Dr. W. C. Isherwood, was dying at his home at Charlotte, Mich. Mr. Isherwood left this afternoon for Charlotte. The doctor was formerly a resident of Toledo, leaving here some ten years ago.

The Fumigation Went On.

The residence of Daniel Segur, situate at the corner of Bancroft and Fulton streets, was thoroughly fumigated this morning by the sanitary authorities. The health department maintained that there had recently been a case of typhoid fever in the house and that fumigation was necessary as a precautionary measure.

Mr. Segur appeared upon the scene before the sanitary officers had left the premises and threatened to bring suit against the city for damages.

Careless Driving.

A piece of criminal carelessness that might have resulted in the death of the victim, occurred at the corner of Bancroft and Cherry streets yesterday.

Little Miss Joe Cunningham was coming up Cherry street on a bicycle, and seeing a crowd and some confusion near Bancroft, she tried to get out of the way, when a man, driving an express wagon, came up the street at a furious pace, and drove directly over the little girl.

How she escaped instant death is a miracle.

The brutal driver never stopped to see what resulted from his carelessness, but drove on as fast as possible.

Miss Cunningham was carried into the nearest drug store where it was ascertained that no bones were broken, but there is not a spot on her body that is not bruised and torn.

If her friends could learn the name of the driver, he would be made an example of.

The Y. Delegates.

At the meeting of the executive committee of the Toledo Y. W. C. T. U. at the First Congregational church Wednesday afternoon, the principal business transacted was the selection of delegates to represent the union at the state convention to be held at Piqua, O., October 5-6-7.

The following ladies were named: Mesdames L. L. Parks and J. E. Eaton, and Miss Jessie Foster.

Other business attended to, was the accepting of the resignation of Miss Upp as superintendent of the junior Ys, and the election of Miss Una Crim to take her place.

It was decided that hereafter the collection of dues should be the work of the vice presidents.

The Junior Ys will hold a meeting in the First Congregational church, Tuesday afternoon, October 4, and each member will be notified by postal card when and where meetings are to be held.

The committee hope by this means to make the attendance at the meetings larger.

Rallying Week.

Rallying week at the First Presbyterian church begins Sunday morning, and continues until Friday afternoon, the exercises for the week being as follows:

First, it is desired to have all the congregation and Sunday school at the morning service, it being the regular quarterly communion.

Second, the congregation is invited into the Sunday school at noon.

Third, all the young people of the congregation are invited to attend the meeting of the Christian Endeavor society at 6:30 p. m. Older members of the congregation will also be welcome.

Fourth, a popular meeting in the evening at 7:30, to which all are invited. There will be a song service of half an hour followed by three 10-minute addresses: The Former days, Mr. Thomas Vanstone; The Sabbath School, Mr. W. J. Bamber; The Future of Our Church, Mr. W. L. Rowland.

Fifth, a rally of the officers and teachers of the Sunday school on Monday evening, October 3, at 7:30 o'clock in the quarterly council.

Sixth, the Woman's Missionary society will rally for their first fall meeting at Mrs. J. L. Gillett, 2049 Ashland avenueo, on Wednesday, October 5, at 3 o'clock p. m. This will be a missionary tea. All the ladies of the congregation are cordially invited.

Seventh, a rally of the teachers for the study of the first lesson of the quarter on Thursday evening at 7:15.

Eighth, a grand rally at the Thursday evening meeting for prayer and conference. Let everybody, old and young, come to the prayer-meeting, and each with a word of testimony or prayer.

Ninth, the first division of the Cheerful Workers will rally in the church parlors on Friday afternoon, October 7, at 4 o'clock.

Successful Mass Meeting.

The mass meeting held in the German M. E. church, corner of Ontario and Walnut streets, last evening, was a pronounced success.

The program already printed in the Bee was carried out and besides this there were interesting addresses by well known temperance workers.

Mrs. J. S. Eck, president of the Union of Unions, gave a scripture reading and Miss M. F. Frederick, superintendent of foreign temperance work, and in whose immediate charge the meeting was held, made a very eloquent address. Mrs. Bartlett, of East Toledo, was also present and gave a spicy talk.

Rev. Waugh, pastor of the German M. E. church in East Toledo; Rev. Hiller, pastor of the church in which the meeting was held; Dr. McGaw and Rev. Candee also made good speeches.

At the conclusion of the exercises a collection was taken for the work done by Miss Landhaler, the W. C. T. U. missionary in Castle Garden, New York. The offering amounted to $6.50.

Miss Frederick wishes through the press to heartily thank Rev. Hiller for the use of his church, and other good service rendered, the various pastors who, with their presence and speeches helped to make the meeting interesting, and to all who contributed in any way to make the mass meeting a success.

There will probably be other meetings of the kind held in the near future.

LATE MARKETS.

The receipts of wheat to-day at Minneapolis and Duluth are 620,961 bu, and at five other western points 815,553 bu; total 1,436,514 bu. On the corresponding Thursday in 1891 the receipts at the same points were 1,077,953 bu, including 625,896 bu of northwest wheat, leaving 452,057 as the movement at the five other points, compared with 815,553 bu to-day.

The export clearances yesterday at four Atlantic ports were wheat 189,180 bu and flour to an aggregate of 430,000 bu.

English markets as reported herein, are steady and Liverpool dull for wheat; corn firm.

The Markets To-day.

Th ereceipts of wheat to-day at Toledo show a large falling off, but are 21,778 bus in excess of the corresponding Thursday in 1891.

Fair comparison above of receipts with seven points in 1891, and which points are alway an index of the whole movement, shows an excess to-day over 1891 of 358,561 bus. The northwestern receipts to-day are 4,935 bus less than in 1891, the receipts at five other points are 363,496 bus in excess of 1891.

The Minneapolis Record says the farmers up there are congratulating and thanking the elevator men for withholding the statement of stocks. It comes too late. The mischief was all done before the northwest began to sell their crop. Farmers have broken down the market themselves by their unprecedented selling. The receipts at points of accumulation furnished all the necessary information without any statement of stocks. Farmers rush their wheat to market in quantities that oversupply all demand—break down the price—and then begin to complain of the results of their own acts, and hunt around for a remedy. There is no remedy, save one, and that is to give the world time enough to eat up part of the stocks on hand. And now comes the repetition of the above, in the sales of northwest wheat, which now are equal to the enormous movement of 1891. Will the "Market Record" put this matter before the farmers, as above?

The wheat markets close at a loss of 1-2c to 5-8c on the basis of December delivery.

Corn, which bull dealers insisted was a purchase yesterday, has had a bad slump to-day and closes 1c to 1 1-4c.

London, Paris and Berlin wheat markets are reported closing higher.

In New York October wheat closed at 78 5-8c, a loss of 3-4c; December at 81 7-8c, a loss of 1-2c; May at 87 3-4c, a loss of 1-2c; September corn at 52c, a loss of 7-8c; October at 51 3-4c, a loss of 1 1-8c; October oats at 36 1-2c, a loss of 1-2c.

In Chicago December wheat closed at 76c, a loss of 1-2c; May at 81 1-8c, a loss of 5-8c; September corn at 44 1-4c and October at 44 3-8c, a loss on each of 1 3-8c; October oats at 31 5-8c, a loss of 1c.

CARD OF ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS.

We have been waiting to receive the balance of ticket sales to announce to our friends the proceeds of the late entertainment given at the Wheeler opera house by and for the orphans. The net amount received to date is $815—which, with dues expected, will aggregate about $900.

In the name and on behalf of our orphan wards we tender most heartfelt thanks to one and all for the generous sympathy displayed on this occasion.

L. C. COLE, Secretary. W. J. COLBURN, Chairman.

---

The G. A. R. in Washington showed a fair appreciation of public opinion by forgetting that Gen. Raum was in the city.

---

Republican managers in Indiana complain because Gresham does not urge his friends to support Harrison. Why should he? What did Harrison ever do for Gresham?

---

Think of it, 2:04! What will Nancy do next? Rah for Nancy, old girl, she divides honors with the presidential candidates. Which one of them all can get in under the wire like Nancy Hanks?

---

Warner Miller climbed inside the breastworks long enough yesterday to make a speech for Harrison. Tom Platt also urged the party to organize. It is also said that Quay is to take a hand. The machine must be badly out of repair when these master mechanics of the Blaine shop are needed to get it well under way.

---

Gov. McKinley didn't dare to meet Col. McClure on the platform in debate before the Philadelphia manufacturers, but he was scarcely out of the city before the Colonel was invited by the Reform club to answer his sophistries, and he raked the Governor's self-laudatory speech till the ribs of the humbug showed clean to the committee room where the plotters assembled to dictate "terms" to "Auditor McKinley."

---

There was never so grand an opportunity to test the Sherman anti-trust law as is presented in the coal trust that lifts its head defiantly in our midst and by virtue of a protective tax boosts up and up the prices on this product of nature. Somehow the mutual understanding seems to be that the Sherman law was not constructed for practical use, but as a blind and a humbug to fool voters. The first blow at any trust is to remove from it governmental protection and aid.

---

They can't complain of dull campaigning in Minnesota. Candidate Donnelly, in a political speech made in St. Paul last night claimed to bring proof that a republican editor, at the instigation of his party in the state, was advocating his (Donnelly's) assassination. He quoted: "It is a pity means could not be discovered which should make him eternally silent." Donnelly says "This means murder, and if I perish in the cause I hope that my friends will see that I am avenged." The great cypher advocate is no cypher himself, don't you see?

---

Chauncey Depew came home from Europe in lovely-made English clothes and with a trunk-full besides, for future occasions. He will wear some of these suits when he tells the American workingmen how the McKinley tariff protects them from the pauper labor of Europe. The farmers and merchants who, with their families can never hope to buy these beautiful pauper-made garments that Mr. Depew and his set array themselves in, will proceed to cheer the sentiment, kiss the hand that smites them and go on taking Jay Gould's advice to "buy one coat a year instead of two, if the tax makes it necessary." Lovely Mr. Depew in his pauper-made clothes—he is home in time to help on the campaign for "protection to America's laboring men."

THE PENSION BUSINESS.

Mr. Cleveland is and has always been consistent on the pension question. He tried to right a great wrong and meet the pension sharks, who are able to build marble mansions in fine cities out of the fees drawn from the people's treasury, through direct legislation and a whacking-up system, by showing up their methods and blocking their way to the treasury. No honest patriot of any party ever begrudged the genuine and deserving old soldiers whatever reward a generous country should decree them. Mr. Cleveland and his party with him, and a large contingent of other parties seriously and justly object to the pension department being made a political machine for any party's benefit, backed by the money in the people's treasury. Does any one believe an honest and deserving veteran was ever wronged by Mr. Cleveland's investigation into the merits of his claim? Is there any person who does not believe that there are thousands of persons to-day drawing yearly sustenance from the treasury, through the manipulation of these same sharks who got a big share of the booty, that have no claim at all upon the country for a single day's military service? Strength that is built upon prejudice can only be maintained among the unthinking and ignorant.

THE "STEERAGE" AT SANDY HOOK.

Go to Camp Low, Sandy Hook, and study one feature of protection to American labor. Look over those forlorn, miserable wretches, as alien to our climate, tongue, manners, methods and institutions as if they had been born on another planet. The belief that American laws protect labor has lured them to our shores, where in their ignorance, poverty, and disease they are utterly helpless on our hands. American employers of gangs of men and women who are known apart by numbers on their backs, welcome them when they come, able to work. They can save wage money by employing them. When these imbibe sufficient of the air and spirit of independence to realize that they are being swindled and dare to ask a fraction of the promised benefit, they are turned out and fresh hands are put in their places. And this is how American labor is protected by a tax for the benefit of employers.

The emigrants now at Sandy Hook are no worse and no better than the tens of thousands scattered monthly over the country, only grouped and detained at quarantine it gives opportunity for a collective study and inevitable conclusions. Foreign goods and raw material are shut out by tax law for the benefit of the home market; foreign labor comes in droves to compete in the home labor market. Any but a wilfully blind man can understand the humbug of "protection" for any class but employers.

AMERICA'S WORKING "PEOPLE."

There is something in the true American spirit—the spirit of industry and independence, that is offended by the idea of "charitable" treatment. It savors too much of the master and servant, the lord and serf sentiment that rules all the concerns of life in the old countries, and which we, in preamble and declaration, affect to despise. "Lord So-and-So is like a father to his tenantry," is said of a candidate for British official position. It means a great deal where these distinct lines of caste are drawn; where a lord of the land (landlord) and the peasant tenantry are established by generations reaching back to the beginning. But in free America, where it is blazoned on our banners that all men are free and given equal opportunities, the Carnegie idea of "rich men as trustees and almoners for the poor," is properly met with resentment.

It is because of these fundamental principles of equality and independence that the much-trumpeted scheme of Col. Shepard, of the New York Mail and Express, to send "the working people" in small herds, by themselves, at stated intervals, to the world's fair on charity rates doesn't "take." Mr. Shepard is an expert at dividing the rich and the poor, likewise the sheep and the goats. There should be no reason why the working people of America are not able to go to Chicago when and as they choose. They should not be obliged to go in droves, culled out from the wealth and aristocracy and placarded "Working people sent to the show through the charity of millionaire managers of the country." The only reason for such a necessity, or, rather, for such an opportunity for a money magnate to advertise himself and his newspaper, is that "the working people" are not possessing themselves of their share of the wealth which they are the chief instruments in producing. They are becoming imbued, imperceptibly and unconsciously, with the master and menial spirit. Instead of accepting the free ride to Chicago, tendered by the Shepards, Vanderbilts and other corporation partners in control of the country and its legislation, they should ask themselves why, with their days of hard labor and their economy, they are obliged to depend upon this, or any other charitable plan for means to enjoy a holiday in this country of their own making? own hands by a large majority, there is a remedy for this plain injustice. The conditions are due to legislation and not to natural causes.

MORE OF THE BROER CASE

Mr. Read Still Endeavoring to Learn the Whereabouts

Of Diamonds Said to Have Been Purchased

For Stock—Mr. Kohn Offers $30,000 of Cancelled Notes As Evidence of His Client's Honesty—The Examination Up to Press Time.

At 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon W. H. A. Read began firing questions at B. H. Broer in probate court.

Mr. Broer reported that he had been unable to find the small memorandum book in which he kept a record of stock used for speculative purposes.

Mr. Read wanted to know if he could remember the date and month of the last lot of goods taken out of stock to negotiate for cash.

Mr. Broer replied that $1,300 was the last, and was taken out the last of July or the first of August.

Mr. Read next inquired if he had given Nichols the $1,300 worth of stock before or after he made the statement to the Jewelers' Board of Trade of New York, to which Mr. Broer replied that it was before, about one month.

He said he never gave Nichols a Howard movement; that he gave him some watches, but no valuable movements.

To whom did you give any Howard movements? queried Mr. Read.

A—I believe Herrick got one.

Q—When?

A—A year or two ago.

Q—What trade did he get it in?

A—I don't know.

Q—Do you know whether or not any of your goods were given to Toledo pawnbrokers?

A—No.

Q—Did you ever talk to any Toledo pawnbrokers about redeeming these goods?

A—I did not.

Q—Do you know Mr. Gladwell, the pawnbroker?

A—I do not.

Q—Did you not talk with him about redeeming a valuable Howard movement?

A—I do not know whether I did or not.

Q—You would certainly know whether you did or not?

A—Not for some time.

Q—We are talking of transactions since March.

A—Not this year.

Q—Do you know whether Gladwell has any of your diamonds, watches or jewelry?

A—If he has I do not know it.

Here Mr. Read took up a book in which Mr. Broer recorded his inventories. It showed that an inventory had been taken February 1, 1891, but the June inventory testified to was not recorded. Mr. Read wanted to know why he had not taken an account of this invoice. Mr. Broer stated that his inventory was taken hurriedly. The Jewelers' association had written for a statement of his assets, and he went through the stock in order to make a correct showing.

Q—In your trades for patent rights on what basis did you fix the value of the goods disposed of in this way?

A—Cost price and a profit.

Q—What rate of profit?

A—About 25 per cent.

Q—And on the goods turned for cash and notes?

A—About the same profit.

Mr. Read then took up his bill book in which a record of goods purchased since January, 1890, and bills paid were recorded. The bills payable were entered on one side of the book and bills paid on the other, each month.

Mr. Read glanced over the book, stated that he was unable to find any record of bills payable from June, although bills paid had been entered up. He wanted to know why this entry had not been made.

Mr. Broer said he had no reason to give further than that he always took up his notes at the end of the month and entered them up. He had simply neglected to enter the bills.

Mr. Read found the same state of affairs for May and April.

Q.—Now will you make a careful statement of just what property you own? queried Mr. Read.

A.—I don't know as I own any at the present time.

Q.—You don't own a dollar in the world?

A—Oh, I would not say that, for I have a dollar in my pocket.

Mr. Kohn—Just let him go, and he will be after that.

This remark caused considerable laughter, and after order had been restored, Mr. Read went on pumping.

Q—How much stock have you in pawnshops that can be redeemed?

A—I don't know, but I think the last lot can be redeemed.

Q—How do you know it can?

A—Because that was the understanding under which it was put up, and Nichols told me it could be redeemed.

Q—Now if I give you $800 do you think you could redeem the $1,300 worth of goods?

A—I think I could.

Q—Is there any other that can be redeemed?

A—I think there is another parcel which can be redeemed.

Q—How much?

A—A couple of thousand.

Q—How much did you get on it?

A—Thirteen hundred.

Q—Who negotiated this deal?

A—Nichols.

The question then came up as to who owns the cuff holder patent. Mr. Broer stated that he owned it but had transferred it to Kelly & Undermeyer with the wheel, subject to sale in a deal pending.

Mr. Kohn stated that there was also a $4,500 lien on the cuff fastener, for money borrowed of Medges, of Mansfield, last winter.

The examination developed that according to bills in Mr. Read's possession, Mr. Broer, on July 9, purchased $3,117.13 of Ernest Adler, and that after that date he turned over $1,300 worth of diamonds to Nichols to dispose of.

"These were the only diamonds disposed of outside of the regular business in July?" asked Mr. Read.

A—Yes.

Q—How much diamonds did you sell in your business in July and August?

A—About $500 or $600 worth.

Q—You also bought $743.23 of Ernest Adler, on July 22. Those were put in stock, were they not?

A—They were.

To about this same question he replied that he had purchased diamonds in the month of July and August; $1,500 of Gonzburger Bros.; July 20, Arstein Bros., $1,006.71; that there were $1,000 in the stock when it was turned over to Ketcham.

"You turned $1,300 over to Nichols, sold $400, turned $1,000 over to Ketcham—what became of the balance?" inquired Mr. Read.

A—I raised money besides the $1,300 in July and August.

Q—You said nothing about that before. How much did you raise?

A—Very likely I raised between $2,500 and $3,000.

Q—Then what did you say you had only disposed of $1,300 worth then?

A—I must have been mistaken.

Examination showed that these goods had been disposed of in the same manner as the others had been, and had been applied on indebtedness; also that he had purchased $1,400 worth of diamonds of Kossuth, Max & Co. in July.

He stated on being questioned that he had purchased diamonds since January first to June, as follows: Ernest Adler, April 22, $743.73; Arnstein Bros. & Co., February 23, $175; Gonzburger Bros., January 27, 1892, $876.26; Keller, Ettinger & Fink, May 31, $784.50; Adolph Goldsmith, March 7, $451.50; April 26, $556.72; Low, Weinburg & Hyman, $640.71.

"Will you tell us why you purchased such a large stock of diamonds within 90 days prior to your failure?" said Mr. Read.

A—I always had about so many on hand to keep up the stock.

Q—What was the average value of your diamond stock?

A—About $4,000 or $5,000.

Then why was it necessary to purchase $6,000 or $8,000 worth of diamonds to keep up the stock? Now is it not a matter of fact that you bought these diamonds to raise money on to tide you over until you could realize on your patents?

A—No, sir, I did not buy them for that purpose. I always kept them on hand. When I was compelled to put up any stock, I always expected to redeem it.

Q—On August 12 you purchased 13 pair of opera glasses of Levy, Dreyfus & Co. What became of them?

A—They are in the house at the present time, unopened.

Q—Will you turn them over to me as attorney for the owner?

A—I will.

At 4 o'clock the court adjourned until 9 a. m. to-day, and Mr. Read went with Mr. Broer to get the opera glasses.

Before the examination closed yesterday afternoon, Mr. Kohn stated that he had $30,000 worth of notes taken up by Mr. Broer since the first of the year, and wanted to know if Mr. Read wanted them.

Mr. Read said he did not know of what use cancelled notes would be to his clients. Mr. Kohn replied that they would show that Mr. Broer had been endeavoring to pay his debts.

The examination was continued at 9 o'clock this morning, and Harry Wade was called to the stand.

From the first to the last his testimony was rambling and evasive. He did not answer a single question direct, and on several occasions refused to answer at all, and once the court threatened to send him to jail if he did not answer.

He testified that he sold the first half of the cuff holder to Broer for $7,500, $8,000 or $9,000, and this was as near as Mr. Read could get him to a definite statement; also that he sold the last quarter for about the same amount. He sold the two interests about six months apart. This was taken in watches and diamonds: mostly diamonds. He said he sold the three-quarter interest in the West bicycle patent for about $7,000 and the road cart for about $500. He said he did not sell him any more because he had no more stock.

Mr. Wade testified to having received the last lot of goods, some $6,000 or $7,000 worth, within the last year.

Mr. Read asked what he had done with it, and he replied that he had sold it. He was asked who he sold it to, and said that was his business. It was his property, and he had a right to sell it to whom he pleased, and was not compelled to tell who he sold to.

Mr. Read appealed to the court, and Judge Millard was inclined to stand with the witness. Mr. Read stated that he was making an effort to follow the goods. If they were not allowed to go farther than what Broer had done with them, the examination would simply be a farce.

The court concluded that the question should be answered, and Wade said he sold them to Jones and Smith and Dick and Harry.

Mr. Read went on questioning as to who Jones was and was getting the witness in a bad hole, when Mr. Kohn interrupted, stating that the witness was without counsel and he did not think it fair or just to allow him to be led into perjuring himself unprotected, and suggested that he be allowed to withdraw his last answer, to which the court consented.

Wade then stated that he had sold the goods here and there, some in Chicago, some in St. Louis, and a few to his brother-in-law, Wm. H. Kerr, at Laramie City, Wyoming. He said in the last three years he had traded Broer between $25,000 and $30,000 worth of stuff, and taken goods for it.

At noon a recess was taken until 2 o'clock.

Democratic Judicial Convention at Fremont

Chooses a Candidate for Common Pleas Judge—The Ballot.

Fremont, Sept. 29.—(Special)—The judicial convention was called to order late owing to the arrival of Lucas county in two delegations. Chairman Geo. B. Boone called the convention to order and named James E. Hunt, of Sandusky, as temporary chairman. E. H. Hilt was made secretary, with the democratic correspondents assistants.

The temporary organization was made permanent. Col. Togler was announced as being in the city and a committee consisting of F. O. Farrell, of Sandusky; Judge Beis, of Erie, and Frank E. Wright of Lucas, was appointed to escort him to the hall.

The colonel made a brief speech and was heartily cheered.

The judiciary committee was named as follows: Lucas, P. A. McGahan; Ottawa, Wm. C. Wireman; Sandusky, B. S. Garver; Erie, John F. McChrystal; Huron, J. W. Lee.

Erie, Huron and Ottawa counties had no candidates and Barton Smith presented the name of L. G. Richardson and Frank Wright seconded it.

Judge McGahan named P. C. Hudson, and E. P. Raymond seconded.

The vote resulted as follows:

| | Richardson. | Hudson. |
|---|---|---|
| Erie | 15 1-5 | 22 1-5 |
| Huron | 10 1-2 | 20 1-2 |

| Ottawa | 15 | 14 |
| Sandusky | 17 1-2 | 17 1-2 |
| Totals | 102 1-5 | 115 4-5 |

The nomination was made unanimous, and the convention adjourned.

A Harrison Appointee Jumps From the Party

And Causes Consternation in the Minnesota State Central Committee.

New York, September 29.—A special to the Herald from St. Paul says the Minnesota state central committee was thrown into consternation last night by the announcement that R. R. Odell, United States commissioner, an appointee of the Harrison administration, and for many years a republican leader, has become a democrat and will take the stump for Cleveland.

AT COP HEADQUARTERS,

The Boys Figuring on the Impending Storm.

"Trouble is brewing around these diggings," said an active member of the police force to a Bee to-day while the latter was buzzing about the central station.

"Something is going to drop pretty soon. The newspaper articles as to treachery on the force have had their effect, and although they have been apparently ignored by the powers that be, at the same time a quiet but thorough investigation has been going on. I do not know who the guilty party is, but I do know that when he is discovered his name will be Dennis with a big D.

"Some of the patrolmen are going to be shaken up, too, and if Officer Hewitt is fired Dwyer will also have to go. Hewitt and Commissioner Doville are cheek by Jowl, and bosom friends. In fact, Doville got Hewitt on the force, and he is determined not to see his protege dismissed if he can prevent it. Politics is cutting quite a figure here now. The democrats are not in it to a very large extent, and won't be until next spring, when there is bound to be a change.

"When Chief O'Dwyer was at the helm he and his clerk did all the work, but Chief Raitz not only isn't here hardly half of the time, but when he is here he has to have a couple of sergeants to assist him."

THE GAS COMMITTEE

Holds a Short Session and Takes Action on Important Legislation.

Last May several ordinances for electric lights in various parts of the city were referred back to the gas and light committee from the board of aldermen for reconsideration. Nothing further was done with them until last night, when the committee met and reapproved them all. The city clerk was also instructed to draft ordinances in response to all the petitions now in hand for lights. The location of the lights provided for in the reapproved ordinances is as follows:

In Prescott street, Ashland to Collingwood avenue; in Horton street, Prescott to Bancroft; in Superior street, Buffalo to Galena; in Lawrence avenue, between Virginia and Bancroft streets; in Bancroft street, from west line of Maplewood addition to a point 400 west of Lawrence avenue; in Scottwood avenue, Bancroft to Floyd street and Bancroft to Parkwood avenue; in Robinwood avenue, Bancroft to Monroe street; in Starr avenue, Parker street, White street, Howland avenue, and Sixth street, Prescott and Horton streets, Front, York, Paine, Grand, Licking, Western, Hicks, Calkins, and Wheeler streets, and Hollywood avenue. A resolution offered by Mr. Gill provides for one light at the corner of Broadway and Woodville streets.

SEVERAL IMMIGRANTS

Rushed Through the City Under the Noses of the Health Officer.

The health department received a telegram yesterday to the effect that eleven immigrants were en route from Canada to Toledo via the Michigan Central. Measures were at once taken to detain them in case they attempted to either pass through the city or stop off here. The railroad authorities, however, outwitted the health officials in one sense of the word by transferring the contraband passengers at Alexis to a separate car, in which they were brought to Toledo and then started toward their destination over the C., H. & D. road at a late hour last night.

With the exception of the above everything has been quiet in the health department's jurisdiction this week. Precautionary measures are being relaxed gradually and it is a question of only a short time when they will be done away with altogether. The quarantine station on the East Side will probably be discontinued by the first of October.

Delightful Reception

Mr. and Mrs. George H. Stevens entertained with a second wedding reception yesterday at the residence of Mr. B. A. Stevens, Monroe street. A large number of guests paid their respects to the newly married couple during the afternoon and evening. Mr. and Mrs. Stevens were assisted by Mr. and Mrs. B. A. Stevens, Miss Gertrude Knight, Mr. and Mrs. Paddock, and Misses Paddock, Nannie Ormond, Mattie Tracy, Nettie Van Dusen, Daisy Bullard, Carrie Ritchie and Norma Abbott and Messrs. Frank Thomas and Ed Kirk.

SOME ANTIQUITIES.

A Visit to a Time Honored Home in Eastern New York—The Van Duzer Homestead.

In Orange county, New York, not far from Cornwall-on-Hudson, is the home of the Van Duzer family; a home widely known through many years, both for its antiquity and the hospitality of its owners.

It was a few of the antiquaries, searching for rare rarities and curious curiosities, who, a few days ago, visited this place in their frantic endeavors to unearth the ages.

Very sequestered looked the ancient house, porticoed and pillared, as it showed its gray walls and deeply recessed windows through the densely shaded grounds. The diminutive panes were flashing back the sunset, and the long shadows were racing about the surrounding hemisphere when the relic revelers turned their steps along the boxwood walk to the wide, low portico of the old-time mansion.

Standing on this portico, as if to welcome their advent, was a heliotrope-colored earthen receptacle, whose aggressively bulging lower regions, bearing white dragons in high relief, all tapering into nothingness in a long drawn-out spout, verified the prediction, as it has never been verified before—that "extremes must meet."

It is a two and a half-story house built of rough stone stuccoed. In the wide central hall are relics galore—the antique clock, grotesque chairs whose coverings were wrought by grand dames of bygone decades. An interesting object shown was the deed of this home. This deed was from Queen Anne, over 170 years ago. The property has remained in the Van Duzer family since that time.

This old yellow parchment deed, which, judging from its size, must have been measured off with the acres, bears a date of March 25, 1729. It has, attached, a seal bearing the English arms and large enough to form a modern piece of medallion bric-a-brac. In one room is a bookcase lost in ancestral perspective and over against the wall, a writing desk, used by the Father of His Country, and hard by a mirror which once reflected the stately person of the same.

From a secret drawer in one of the many chambers a wedding garment was brought to the garish light of modern day, showing in its time-stained folds of sheeny satin, the stitches of some happy bride of this family, in the gala days of yore, who was not abashed at making her own bridal gown. On a mahogany sideboard stood a tea pot of lustre ware of the first kind made in this country in 1820. This ware was, at that time, made in most of the New England states.

The Van in the name assures the Knickerbocker ancestry of the family and justly proud are they to own it. Henry has been the family name. The present owner is Mr. Henry Van Duzer and the present family consists of himself, wife and three children.

It is a delightfully cool retreat in the heated days and delightfully filled with colonial memories for the fortunate people who could find entrance to its portals on a very recent day.

Notes.

The Van Wert News strongly condemns Rev. J. R. Hall, who was arrested for stealing his own horse, i. e., going where his horse was being kept and trained and taking it out and selling him. He had been acquitted by a committee of local preachers. He is not a member of the conference.

The Pentecostal meetings are deeply interesting and draw out large congregations. It is refreshing to be in such meetings.

Rev. Thos. N. Barkdull does not wish to be called a member of the North Ohio conference. He will stay in the Central.

Bishop Ninde is a model presiding officer—firm and dignified, yet affable and pleasant.

To-day's Proceedings.

The conference session is progressing pleasantly. The large church was packed last night to hear Dr. Spencer on Church Extension.

Dr. Morris gave his first lecture on Sacred Oratory this morning, the preachers generally attending.

Conference was opened at 9 o'clock by Bishop Ninde. The conference refused to appoint Rev. Termworth chaplain of Logan county children's home.

Defiance, Delaware, Findlay and Lima districts were reported by their presiding elders, showing a healthy advance in all spiritual and temporal work.

Dr. Stubbs, president of Baldwin university, was introduced and addressed the conference. There is a whispering of changes at Van Wert, Asbury, Delaware, and Defiance.

Those with Kenton and Marion may cause a general tear up, but it is only whispered among those who know everything. There will hardly be any change in Toledo.

Dr. Love will probably leave Howard church, Findlay, and one of the young men of the conference is spoken of for Marion.

The standing committee is here to hold Rev. Jamison at Fostoria.

THE CLOVER.

Some sing of the lily and daisy and rose,
And the pansies and pinks that the summer time throws
In the green, grassy lap of the medder that lays
Blinkin' up at the skies through the sunshiny days;
But what is the lily and all of the rest
Of the flowers to a man with a heart in his breast
That has dipped brimmin' full of the honey and dew
Of the sweet clover blossoms his boyhood knew?

I never set heavy on a clover field now,
Or fool 'round a stable, or climb in the mow,
But my childhood comes back just as clear and as plain
As the smell of the clover I'm sniffin' again;
And I wander away in a barefooted dream,
Where I tangled my toes in the blossoms that gleam
With the dew of the dawn of the morning of love
Ere it wept o'er the graves that I'm weeping above.

And so I love clover—it seems like a part
Of the sacredest sorrows and joys of my heart;
And wherever it blossoms, oh! there let me bow
And thank the good Lord as I'm thank'n' him now;
And pray to him still for the strength when I die
To go out in the clover and tell it good-by,
And lovingly nestle my face in its bloom
While my soul slips away on a breath of perfume.

—James Whitcomb Riley.

A CRIMINAL DRAMA.

In the year 1834, at Port-au-Prince, in the island of Hayti, a mulatto named Eriag was condemned to suffer death for murder. About the same time Sebastian Dardeza, a young Portuguese, was doomed to a similar fate for a like offense. The two convicts were confined in the same prison, but in different cells. Eriag, whose strength and ferocity were well calculated to excite apprehension in those charged with his custody, was immured in a strong dungeon, into which the air penetrated through a narrow grating, so situated as to exclude the faintest ray of light. The apartment occupied by Dardeza was less gloomy, having on one side a window, which though closely barred, afforded a glimpse of the adjacent country.

In three days the two prisoners were to die. In each cell was placed a supply of provisions sufficient for that period, and the respective inmates, heavily manacled, were left to spend the brief remainder of their lives alone.

Hopeless as seemed their condition, neither entirely despaired of escape. The friends of Dardeza, whose visits he had been permitted to receive up to the moment of his condemnation, had succeeded in giving him a small file, which he managed to conceal from the vigilance of his keepers. With this instrument he essayed to remove his fetters; but possessing neither the resolution nor the address required to accomplish his object, he was speedily discouraged, and giving up to despondency, awaited in apathy a doom he felt himself powerless to avert.

But Eriag, in the face of obstacles in appearance tenfold more insurmountable, instead of yielding in tame submission to his fate, resolved to occupy the scanty hours allotted to him to prepare for death, in unceasing efforts to avoid it.

From what he had been able to observe as to the position of his cell while being conducted to it, he inferred that one of its sides constituted a portion of the outer wall of the prison, hence he imagined if he could but effect a passage through it, nothing would remain but at once to seek safety in flight.

After many unavailing attempts, by an inconceivable exertion of strength he succeeded in wrenching the manacles from his wrists, at the same time gaining the freedom of his hands, and securing an efficient implement wherewith to enter on the remainder of his task, in the iron bar by which they had been separated. With the water in his pitcher he saturated the cement of the wall, with the double purpose of softening it and deadening the sound. The work was slow and difficult. Two days and nights he labored without cessation, save for a moment at each accustomed round of the jailer, and yet the stone he had first attacked budged not. From time to time, as the precious hours glided by, and the granite barrier remained firm as in its primeval bed, hope almost deserted him; but as he pried impatiently in the narrow crevice, and the bending iron, on whose tenacity his life depended, admonished him of the danger of its breaking, he recovered his self-possession, and continued his labors, undeterred by their almost imperceptible progress.

It was not till the evening of the day preceding that fixed for execution, that he felt a slight motion of the block which had so obstinately withstood his efforts. His heart bounded at the discovery; and, stimulated to renewed exertions, in a few minutes more the ponderous stone was removed from its place, leaving, as Eriag soon ascertained, the residue of his task comparatively easy. The wall was speedily pierced; but, on peering through the opening, the wretched prisoner was amazed to find that instead of having secured his freedom, he had simply effected an entrance to another cell. The dim light admitted by the window disclosed the crouching form of Dardeza, whose acquaintance he had made before their sentence, and in a moment more they were together.

Eriag communicated his design to Dardeza; and learning that the window of the latter overlooked the country, he expressed the conviction that escape was yet within their power. But how many hours had they yet left? The darkness of Eriag's cell had rendered it impossible to distinguish night from day and he knew not, till Dardeza informed him, that the night now beginning was the last allotted them to live.

Far from despairing Eriag, this intelligence only served to redouble his resolution; and, as courage is not less contagious than fear, Dardeza began to feel his drooping spirits revive. With the assistance of his companion, his hands were quickly released and by a diligent use of the file already mentioned, the two prisoners alternately relieving each other, several bars of the grating were at length removed. The opening was large enough to admit their egress, and if they could effect in safety a descent of some 60 feet, their freedom was accomplished.

It only remained to file the chains which confined their feet; but this was a work of time, and day was already about to dawn. The file could not serve both at once; and there was scarcely time for one to relieve himself of fetters, the weight of which would render flight impossible. A violent controversy arose between them. The file was in the hands of Dardeza, who insisted on his right to use it first. Eriag threw hiself upon him to wrest it away and in the narrow cell, between two chained men, devoted to death, a mortal combat ensued. Eriag, who was much the stronger, threw his opponent. Dardeza saw himself vanquished, but determined not to be left to die alone, he dragged himself to the window and endeavored to throw the disputed instrument out.

"Hold!" cried Eriag, grasping the other's arm—"another such attempt, and you die on the spot!"

"You shall never have it!" exclaimed the frantic Dardeza; and, with a desperate struggle, partially disengaging himself from his adversary, he conveyed the file to his mouth, and made an effort to swallow it! It stuck in his throat, and he was evidently suffocating. Again Eriag threw himself on Dardeza; and, with all his force, dashing his head against the wall, plunged his hand into his mouth, tore the file from his lacerated throat, and casting aside the yet quivering body, began the work which he had reason to fear had already been too long delayed.

In a space of time incredibly brief, he stood disencumbered of the last of his fetters; and by means of a cord hastily twisted of strips torn from the garments of Dardeza, he let himself down from the window till within 20 feet of the ground, when, having reached the extremity of his rope, he let himself drop, and reached the pavement without serious injury. But instead of finding himself at liberty, he discovered that a high wall yet remained to be scaled; and while seeking the most eligible point of ascent, his progress was intercepted by a fierce and powerful dog, evidently intent on disputing his passage. Apprehensive, every moment, lest the animal should betray his presence to the guards, he boldly seized him by the throat and strangled him—a feat which was not achieved without a struggle, in the course of which the dog bit off one of his assailant's thumbs. Eriag, now relieved from his watchful adversary, was not long in discovering a spot at which he was able to clamber over the wall with comparatively trifling exertion.

At daybreak the jailer came to prepare the prisoners for death, when, to his astonishment, he found the mangled corpse of the one, and discovered the flight of the other.

The alarm was instantly sounded. Traces of blood and the murderer's thumb were found near the body of the faithful dog. It was evident that the prisoner's right hand was maimed. A circumstance which might afford a clew to his discovery.

These details were immediately proclaimed, and a tempting reward was offered for Eriag's apprehension. After climbing the wall, he ran till overcome by fatigue and hunger, he stopped at the hut of an old negress and demanded food, which he received. He was on the point of taking his departure, when Caro, the woman's son, arrived from the town, and related the news he had there heard. Eriag thurst his hand into his bosom; but but the movement was not quick enough to elude the rapid glance of Caro, who, rushing on the stranger, plucked his hand from his hiding-place, and exposed the tell-tale mutilation.

Determined to make good, at every haizard, an escape which had cost him so dear, Eriag sprang aside, and catching up an axe which lay in a corner, raised it, intending to dispatch the youth from whose intrepidity and courage he saw he had everything to fear. Caro defended himself with a heavy stick, from which, as the axe descended, it glanced and cleft the skull of the aged negress, who had advanced to protect her son. Infuriated at the sight, the young man dealt the thrice-guilty wretch a blow which felled him insensible to the earth. At the same instant, three mounted officers, who had been scouring the country in search of the fugitive, made their appearance; and Eriag recovered his consciousness to find him self once more in the iron grasp of justice, alike undeserving and hopeless of mercy.—New York News.

On a march infantry will endure the fatigue much better than cavalry, and in a long distance the foot soldiers will outmarch the horsemen, says the St. Louis Globe-Democrat. Those who doubt this statement should remember that a horse in army service carries about 270 pounds weight, while the soldier carries only his musket and from 30 to 40 pounds. Notwithstanding the fact that a ten-minutes' halt is made in every hour for stragglers to catch up, cavalry straggle to the rear more than infantry do, and the care of a horse on a long march is a serious matter. The horses are picked animals, but even the best horse is liable to fall lame from the loss of a shoe or a stone in his hoof or from some other cause which at first may be entirely unperceived by the rider.

GREAT TELEPHONING.

First Test of the Long Distance Line.

Conversation Carried on From South Bend, Indiana, to New York.

South Bend, Ind., Sept. 29.—The long-distance telephone from New York to South Bend was tested yesterday and the circuit to Chicago will be completed to-day. This is the line constructing by the American Long-distance Telephone company, but it will not be ready for use for several weeks.

South Bend was connected with the testing station, Maumee, O., at 9:45 a. m.; at 10:10 with Pittsburg, and at 10:14 with New York. In each case the test was satisfactory and the vioce transmitted more distinctly than on the local telephone wires. A whisper at this end was distinctly heard in Pittsburg, and General Superintendent Hibbard in New York clearly heard the ordinary tones of voice.

BLOCKS OF TWENTY IN KANSAS.

A Secret Circular Sent Out to Republican Organizers in the State.

Topeka, Ks., Sept. 29.—A circular sent out by the sub-committee of three from the republican state central committee has been received at democratic headquarters, showing an attempt to organize this state in blocks of twenty. The circular directed to the organizer of McPherson county reads as follows:

First—You will please select your precinct organizers at once.

Second—The precinct organizer will subdivide his precinct into not more than twenty voters and place a good reliable republican in charge to look after said voters from now on until after the polls close. This appointee's instructions must be kept absolutely secret. This is imperative. In case no suitable republican can be found in a precinct select one outside to act.

These instructions are for your eyes only, and you are not to show them to any one or to leave them in a place where they are liable to be seen by others.

Secretary Brown, of the republican committee, who is also a member of the sub-committee having charge of the precinct organizations, said to-day that this plan of organization had been agreed upon, but denied that it was the intention to have squads which would be voted in solid blocks.

Richard Morris, secretary of the democratic executive committee, who received the circular, said:

"We have known for some time that the republicans were importing voters into the Seventh district from Oklahoma, but could hardly believe that the republicans would dare to attempt Dudley's methods in this state. I know the scheme will not work in districts where the voters are known, and I think a mistake was made in making the voting squads too large."

The organization of the state by blocks is being made simultaneously with the poll which the republicans are taking. As soon as a trusted republican has been appointed by the county organizer, his name is given to the sub-committee, and any changes between now and election day in the squad will be reported to the state headquarters.

The idea originated with George T. Anthony, the republican candidate for congressman-at-large. In explaining the method Anthony said: "There has been a lot of rot printed about Dudley and his blocks of five. It is simply a practical scheme by which the central committee can keep track of the changes among the voters."

IRISH EVICTIONS.

Movement on Foot for a Parliamentary Investigation.

Dublin, Sept. 29.—The Independent (Parnellite) hails with pleasure the proposed appointment of a commission to examine into the question of evictions, especially the apparent extension of the scope of the inquiry to the evictions that occurred in the days of the Land league as well as the cases of the later sufferers by the adventures of Messrs. Dillon and O'Brien. The paper adds:

"We cannot help saying that Mr. Morley has made out a case for an autumn session of parliament for immediate legislation than a commission of inquiry which has become in Ireland a euphism for shaving the question."

The Freeman's Journal says: "Mr. Morley's letter to Justin McCarthy shows that the government is honest resolved to protect evicted tenants from injustice. The evidence and the report of the commission will dissipate the combined calumny of the coercionists and Redmondites that the tenants' combination is designed for purely political purposes. The report of the commission will give a tremendous impetus to legislation in behalf of the evicted tenants."

MUST REPORT.

All Cases of Infectious Diseases in Berlin.

London, Sept. 29.—The correspondent of the News at Berlin says: At a meeting of the board of health, at which Profs. Koch and Pettenkopf were present, it was resolved to apply the new epidemic law to Asiatic cholera, yellow fever, oriental plague, typhoid diseases, dysentery, smallpox, diphtheria, scarlet fever, measles, influenza, meningitis, puerperal fever, tuberculosis, syphilis, leprosy, infectious eye diseases, all diseases of animals communicatable to man, such as anthrax, hydrophibia, glanders and trichinosis; malaria fever, cholerale diarrhea of children, and the following diseases when they become epidemic: Inflammation of the lungs, erysipelas, parasitic skin diseases, cancerous growths, scorbutic diseases, and pellegra. It was decided to make compulsory the reporting of such diseases to the authorities, but the question whether it should be made compulsory to report every single case or to report only when the cases become numerous was left open.

A TERRIFIC EXPLOSION.

A Nitro Glycerine Factory Near Lima Destroyed—No One Injured—A Man's Peculiar Death.

Lima, O., Sept. 29.—At 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon the factory of the Rock Glycerine company was destroyed by an explosion of nitro-glycerine. Fortunately no one was injured. One of the men had left the factory but a short time before. It was located two miles southwest of the city, and the noise of the explosion caused great excitement for a time. The loss will not reach over $500.

Jacob Hines, a well-to-do farmer living east of town, was splitting a board this morning, when a wire which was under it flew up and struck him in the eye, the end penetrating the brain. He was carried into the house, where he died in 15 minutes.

WOMAN'S CAPACITY TO KEEP SECRETS.

If you think a woman can't keep a secret ask the customs officers of New York. They make the most adroit, the most accomplished smugglers in the business. An inspector said to me recently: "A female, if she be crooked in her dealings with Uncle Sam, will outwit us and bamboozle us twice as easy as a man. She will look at you with liquid eyes and a tear in her voice as big as the diamond stored away in the lining of her corset; will lie and lie with the easy grace of an Ochiltree tinctured with the innocence of a king's daughter." I have already told Republic readers of the woman whose husband died abroad and who smuggled an elaborate mourning outfit across in the coffin with her departed. Lord! Her's was only one of many ruses resorted to. This woman, by the way, has disappeared from view. She no longer struts upper Broadway. Married again, perhaps. Ough! How I pity the poor devil that got her. She will probably use him for ballast some day when she gets through with him, as she did his predecessor.—St. Louis Republic's New York Letter.

FALSE REPORT.

London, Sept. 29.—A cable dispatch from Australia states that there was no truth in the report that Capt. McLeod, of the bark Windermere, from Glasgow to Freemantle, western Australia, had been murdered by mutinous seamen. The dispatch says the signals supposed to have conveyed the information from the Windermere to a passing vessel in mid-ocean must have been misunderstood.

LONDON'S LORD MAYOR.

Opposition to a Candidate Because He Is a Catholic.

London, Sept. 29.—There is much agitation here over the prospective election of Stewart Knill, esquire, alderman for the Bridge ward, as lord mayor of London. The opposition to Alderman Knill is based wholly on the fact that he is a Roman Catholic, it being acknowledged on all sides that his character, official and private is above reproach.

Alderman Knill has written a reply to a letter from Lord Mayor Evans as to his probable course in the event of his election, as to certain religious societies which the lord mayor is expected to attend in his official capacity and in the appointment of a chaplain.

Mr. Knill says, should he be elected he would have a clergyman of the established church as chaplain, while he would, so far as his personal attendance at worship would be concerned, he would of course continue under Roman Catholic ministrations. The newspapers mostly support Mr. Knill, but there is a strong and big opposition to his election.

DENIES CHARGES.

A Life Insurance Row in New York State.

Buffalo, N. Y., Sept. 29.—Ex-Judge Harlan J. Swift, ex-president and attorney of the Life and Reserve association of this city, who is charged in State Insurance Examiner Shannon's report with having misapplied funds of the association, stated in an interview last night that the charges were false, and that Mr. Shannon lied when he made them.

"He knew he lied," said Mr. Swift. "He lied maliciously, wickedly and purposely. These are strong words, but I mean them."

Mr. Swift claims that the security for the loans made by him was ample and denies that he made or knew of any loans being made without security. He says it looks as if there has been a conspiracy to oust by hook or crook those officers who had the best interests of the association at heart, and there are circumstances tending to show that Mr. Shannon has been a tool of these people, or was cognizant of their purpose.

FOR POISONING WOMEN.

Preparations for the Trial of Neill in London.

New York, Sept. 29.—A dispatch from London says: Everything is in readiness for the trial of Neill, the American who is charged with poisoning a number of women, and the case will be decided immediately upon the opening of the fall session of the central criminal court next week.

The treasury department has retained the attorney general, Sir Charles Russell, Queen's Counsel Poland, W. H. Gill with Solicitors Walters and Bryan, to prosecute on behalf of the government; while Messrs. Geoghegan and Drew, two prominent lawyers, will appear for the defense.

It is said that since the termination of the proceedings before the magistrates the government has been furnished with additional facts of a startling character. Nevertheless Neill, in conversation with some visitors at the jail yesterday, said that he entertained strong hopes of being acquitted.

GAME OF SEESAW.

Futile Attempts of St. Louis to Rid Itself of a Nuisance.

St. Louis, Sept. 29.—An amusing and at the same time extraordinary controversy has grown up between the city and county of St. Louis in connection with an attempt by the municipal authorities to close some garbage factories which have become a nuisance owing to the growth of the city north and west.

When prosecuted by the board of health the manufacturers secured a change of venue from the city to the county and plead before a county jury that if driven from the city they will have to locate in the country, with the invariable result of the jury rendering a verdict of not guilty, and thus allowing the factories to remain where they are.

This game of seesaw has been going on for several months but it is now about to be put a stop to by a series of injunction suits in the state circuit court.

SOUTH AMERICAN POLITICS.

New York, Sept. 29.—A cable to the Herald from Valparaiso says that letters received from Rio Grande do Sul announce a movement to proclaim Dom Pedro's grandson emperor.

Dr. Victorino Montero, ex-vice president of Rio Grande, has been given the portfolio of federal minister of foreign affairs. Senhor Serzedello retains the portfolio of finance.

The council of state has approved the Bacourt-Errazuriz protocol, and there is little doubt it will pass both houses.

The Herald correspondent at Montevideo says that the senate has declared against silver coinage. The political situation is tranquil.

A CONNECTING LINE.

New York, Sept. 29.—At a meeting of the stockholders of the Philadelphia, Reading & New England Railway company in this city, it was voted to ratify the lease which was recently made of the Duchess Valley road which is to be used as a connecting line between the Philadelphia, Reading & New England and the New York & New England at Hopewell, in Duchess county.

KU-KLUX KLAN NOMENCLATURE.

The Ku-Klux Klan had the most terrifying system of nomenclature ever known in the history of the English language. A local lodge was called a Den, the members called themselves Ghouls and the master a Cyclops. A county was a province, which was governed by a Grand Giant and four Goblins. A Congressional district was called a Dominion and governed by a Grand Titan and six Furies. A State was a realm, presided over by a Grand Dragon and eight Hydras, while the whole South was an empire, ruled by a Grand Wizard and ten Genii. Such names as these cunningly repeated with bated breath in the ears of the superstitious colored people were of themselves sufficiently terrible to inspire intense fear, but when to these were added a dragon banner, a mask descending to the breast, a full assortment of deadly weapons, a set of owl hoots and bloodcurdling wolf yells, no wonder the colored people were thrown into a state of fright bordering on lunacy.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

SCOTTSVILLE, PA., March 18, 1892.

DR. DAVID KENNEDY:

Dear Sir—From the time I was thirteen years old, I have been afflicted with IT female trouble or weakness peculiar to my sex, a sickness prevalent to women. I was a great sufferer; during this long term of years I doctored with several different physicians and found no relief; was so reduced in strength and flesh that I weighed but 68 lbs. MADE I chanced not long ago to learn of the wonderful cures Dr David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy was performing and I determined to try it; the first bottle produced marked improvement, and after taking five bottles of Favorite Remedy I was almost a ME well woman and weighed 121 1-2 lbs. "JUST THINK OF IT, MY SUFFERING SISTERS," such a gain in weight and better in health than I ever was. I can not urge you too strongly to use this great medicine of Dr. Kennedy's. A fair trial will always produce the happiest results. WELL I feel that in a little while I will be as strong as any woman alive.

Yours respectfully,

MRS. CARRIE BOUTON.

CANINE TOILETS.

Parisian Pet Dogs Well Cared for by the Men Who Make That a Profession.

When the weather is not hot and the skies are cloudless the Seine becomes, for some distance up its course, a regular playground for the working classes of Paris, says a Paris letter to the London Telegraph. Not only are the floating bathhouses (wherein a customer is accommodated with a private dressing-room and a towel for the small sum of seven cents, or at the "sweller" establishments for 10 cents) crowded to every part, but barelegged children go paddling about in the shallows, and carters bring their horses to indulge them with the luxury of a bath, and, above all, the dog-washers are out in full force, for the washing and clipping of pet dogs has become a regular feature of Parisian industry, especially since the large-sized poodle, the regular French "caniche," has become so fashionable.

The great drawback to this handsome and intelligent race is the difficulty experienced in keeping them in good order. Unless a poodle, either white or black, is regularly washed and combed, his fleecy coat soon becomes matted and dirty and all the picturesqueness of his aspect is lost. In the grand establishment of a wealthy Parisian there is naturally no difficulty about detailing a servant to look after the toilet of the favorite; but dog owners of less pretensions are very glad to have recourse to the itinerant dog-dressers that ply their trade in warm weather on the shores of the Seine.

The dog-clipper usually occupies a small boat, from which he proceeds to operations. He handles his canine client with great gentleness as well as dexterity, and gets through the washing process with surprising rapidity. Then comes the clipping, which varies according to the taste or the liberality of the dog's master. The poddle may simply be clipped lion-fashion; that is, with all the hair removed from his hind quarters with the exception of a tuft at the end of his tail. Or he may have bracelets of hair left to encircle each hind leg and an oval tuft called a "macaroon," artistically shaped on each hip, or he may have braces defined over his shoulders, or in very hot weather he may have all his hair removed with the exception of a very fierce-looking pair of mustaches and the inevitable tuft at the end of his tail.

An elaborte get-up of this nature costs the dog's proprietor as high as $2.40, and for the simplest form of washing and clipping a poodle is charged $1. Other dogs, such as spaniels, Yorkshire terriers, dachshunds, etc., are simply bathed and combed, and the price of the process varies from 60 cents to $1, according to the size of the animal. Usually the dog yields himself to the operation with the best possible grace; but all the same the washer invariably begins by strapping up the animal's mouth and by tying his legs.

It has often formed a source of conjecture on my part as to what became of the masses of curly hair that is clipped daily from the multitude of poodles that are brought to the shores of the river to be washed and shorn. For in thrifty Paris nothing is lost, and nothing that can be utilized is thrown away. Recently I learned the destination of all that hair. It is collected and packed to send to the North of France, where it is employed in the manufacture of a certain kind of coarse cloth.

THE RUSSIANS AT HOME.

A Visitor Who Found Them a Pleasant and Hospitable People.

I found them a pleasant, hospitable and social people, always ready to fraternize and help me in every way in their power. I was told sometimes by Englishmen in the country that they were a very childish people; in the case with which they are willing to be amused this may be so, and also, perhaps, in a certain disregard of conventional appearances. I remember once seeing a Russian general and a colonel—and be it noted that officers invariably wear uniform and swords—sitting on the ledge of a shop window in the principal street of one of the largest cities of the empire, discussing some matter with great animation and wholly unaware of any incongruity in their position and of my somewhat bewildered stare. Imagine such a scene in Regent street. My tutor, however, assured me it was nothing out of the ordinary, and laughed at my surprise. One certainly meets with little ways and usages common among the ordinary great middle class (if I may so call the class from which spring the immense majority of officers of the army, ordinary tchinovnicks or officials, students, lawyers, professors of the universities, schools, doctors, merchants, &c.—the class, in fact, among which the ordinary Englishman finds himself cast in his attempt to live in a family and learn the language) which strike an Englishman as being "not nice," and form to a great extent the ground on which we occasionally vote them as barbarous. Small matters to which it would be a pity to attach undue importance, arrest one's attention, such as frequently eating with their knives as we use a fork; no salt-spoon either in hotels or in private houses, the aforesaid knife being employed to help oneself to salt, sometimes stretching half the length of a table to get at it instead of asking that it should be passed; simplifying the carving of a fowl, for instance, by a liberal use of the fingers using the same knife and fork for the various courses and helping oneself to vegetables, etc., by sticking one's fork into the dish and extracting what is required; and many other little points similar in kind.

One common practice should be mentioned. The men, and sometimes the ladies, carry a little pocket comb, which is used in the most unconcerned way anywhere, in a train, at a railway station, or on entering a room, without any apology. The hair is often worn by the men without any parting, sometimes rather long, and brushed or combed back or straight up, which gives them rather a wild appearance. There are some of the peculiarities of manner and ways which, however small, somewhat jar on an Englishman. In spite of the unique opportunity for skating which their long winter gives them, it is rare to find any Russian who can skate well.—Cornhill Magazine.

STOLE FROM HIMSELF IN SLEEP.

"The most puzzling case I ever had was in Denver four or five years ago," said S. S. Corrigan, a veteran detective, who is spending a few days at the Laclede. "A wealthy dry goods merchant made a practice of taking his receipts after banking hours home with him and locking them up in a large safe which he kept in his bedroom. Several times considerable sums were abstracted from the safe, but how it was managed was a mystery. He alone knew the combination and the safe was always properly locked after being looted. He had locks and bars on his doors and windows, and these were not disturbed. I puzzled over the case a good deal, and finally concluded that he must be mistaken about the robberies; that, in short, he was a crank. I tried to get rid of the case, but he was not to be shaken off.

"Finally I had him place a cot for me in his bedroom, and I slept there. Every night before retiring I would ascertain what was in the safe and inspect it in the morning. A week went by before anything occurred to solve the mystery. One night I was awakened by a clicking of the safe lock, and I started up to find the merchant rifling the cash drawer. A closer inspection showed him to be sound asleep. I slipped into my clothes and awaited developments. He carefully closed the safe, lit a candle, opened the door and passed out. He went direct to an old building back of his residence that had been his home before he became wealthy, and concealed his plunder in a cavity that had been made in one of the sills. The mystery was solved. He had been systematically stealing from himself in his sleep. The cavity in the sill of the old house had been his treasure chest in the early days of Denver, before the advent of banks and fireproof vaults, and, worrying over his money in his dreams, he had arisen and transferred it to what in the olden time was the safest place he knew of."—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

PREHISTORIC MONKEYS.

Though Dead They Are Well Preserved, and Their Faces Tell a Story.

In a cave in the South African Transvaal were brought to light the remains of an interesting family of prehistoric monkeys. Their interest in of a similar kind to those of some Pompeiian relle. M. Theophile Gauthier made a young student fall in love with a cast in the Naples museum of which the mould was the cavity left in lava by the body of a Pompeiian lady, and imagined some very rich scenes. If the same distinguished artist could have an opportunity to contemplate these monkeys he might tell us the story of a geographical catastrophe and a tragedy in monkey life.

The monkeys were well preserved and dried and they were in the positions in which they came to a sudden and awful end of their lives. They are not petrified, but mummified by a natural process. The mother is apparently endeavoring to protect her little one from an impending danger. The father is not looking out for his child or his family, as is custom with most males in time of peril. He is looking out for himself. The tails are erected in a very startled manner.

What was the death that cut off this unhappy family? The only suggestion that has been made by the discoverers is that they were walled up by an avalanche or a landslide and suffocated. Yet in that case they would surely have had time to lose that look of surprise. The expression of the two grown animals is so extremley unpleasant that there is no doubt they would have fought had it been an animal that menaced them. The father is about four feet high, and, judging by his countenance, anything smaller than a mammoth would have found him a troublesome antagonist. However, it is quite likely that there were animals living then quite large and ugly enough to frighten monkeys to death. There is a tale of mystery to be told here of how these monkeys died of fear.

In the same cave with them were found the skulls of a Bushman and a Hottentot, and of a deer and a bird.—New York World.

THE SAME BOY.

He Is Always With His Following in the Footsteps of His Fathers.

If your boy amounts to a continental you will notice that when he comes home evenings now his lips are stained a yellowish brown, and his fingers are the color of a fresh Egyptian mummy. You know what it means. You have had the same outlandish color on your own hands, no matter how white and soft they are now. Boys are boys the world over, and the boy of to-day manages to get out among the thickets in the creek bottoms, much as the boy has done for years and years. In the creek bottoms butternut trees grow. Large trunks, broad, sweeping branches, sticky, queer fruit and ample shade. By some strange but wise provision of nature butternut trees always grow along the creek banks, and stones are plentiful in the streams. They are plentiful also beneath the butternut trees, for many generations of boys carrying big flat stones to points where they would do the most good has brought Mahomet and the mountain together. When your hopeful comes home with his fingers brown and his face looking like a yellow fever patient's, he has only been down to the creek bottoms. He has been climbing the crooked trunks and out upon the strong limbs of the butternut trees. He has stolen the developing milky fruit not yet ripe, but delectable nevertheless as the lips of a bride. He has gathered his store beneath the tree, and with a flat stone to hammer with he sat and robbed the nut of its kernel and its stain. It is not very satisfactory to the appetite. It's a good deal on the green apple order of feasting. The stains hang on the boy's hands for weeks. But what's the difference? Boys have eaten green butternuts since there were boys, just as ostriches eat glass or billy goats chew circus posters off the dead walls. Nobody can account for it any more than we can tell why a pig runs about with a wisp of hay in his mouth before a storm, or why a dog turns around before he lies down. It is enough that it is so.

SHE RESEMBLED MEPHISTO.

Satanic Costume Worn at a Damrosch Concert in New York.

At the Damrosch concert the other evening sat a young lady who wore a Satanic costume. By this is meant that very little imagination on the part of those who saw her would have been required to transform her into a Mephistopheles. Her dress was scarlet in color, without trimming of any kind, and fitted the tall, slender figure perfectly. A black lace wrap hung carelessly over her shoulder and fell in loose sombre folds upon the back of her chair, throwing into bold relief the shapely red figure of the girl.

Resting upon glossy, dark ringlets, above a pair of long eyes, that were so deep a brown as to appear black, was her hat. And that hat was the crowning bit that completed the Mephistophelean picture. It was a little black jet affair that glittered snakelike with every turn of the wearer's head, and straight up in front were two, only two, long, thin, black feathers. The slightest motion of air set those feathers nodding and twirling—they never fluttered, but like two sinister horns, seemed beckoning to one in diabolical silence.

Whether a tiny cloven hoof was concealed by the black suede shoes she wore, or if sharp claws lay hidden inside her small black gloves, can never be known, says the New York Advertiser. But one thing is certain. There must have been a dash of deviltry somewhere in the nature of the young woman or she would not have hit upon such a strikingly peculiar arrangement of raiment. That she selected it for its effect was apparent by the wicked little gleam of white teeth which was shown as she caught the gaze of her neighbors riveted upon those trembling, horn-like feathers.

SICKNESS AMONG CHILDREN.

Especially infants, is prevalent at all times, but is largely avoided by giving proper nourishment and wholesome food. The most successful and reliable is the Gail Borden "Eagle" Brand Condensed Milk. Your grocer and druggist keep it.

Amid the Cheering of Four Thousand People—Brief Description of the Boat Which Is to Transfer Cars.

Ann Arbor No. 1, the new boat that has been built at the Craig shipyard for the Toledo, Ann Arbor & North Michigan railroad company, was most successfully launched yesterday afternoon in the presence of an immense crowd.

Long before the hour fixed for the launching—4 o'clock—sightseers commenced gathering at the ship yard and pre-empting the most advantageous points of view from which to witness the event, and when the launching occurred every available foot of standing room in the big yard was occupied.

It was an ideal afternoon for such an occasion. The weather was warm, but not hot, and a refreshing breeze was blowing off the river. The Consolidated road had several extra motor cars on the Ironville line, and each one of them pulled a trailer in the rear, but even with this additional service it was absolutely impossible to furnish transportation to all who desired it, and many had to walk to and from the yard. A large number, however, went in carriages.

There was some little delay in removing the braces, etc., from the sides of the boat, and the launching did not take place at exactly 4 o'clock. In fact it was nearer 5 than 4.

The crowd was just beginning to grow impatient when it was seen that everything was in readiness. All the braces were finally removed, the workmen dropped their tools temporarily to seek a place of safety and nothing remained but to release the blocking.

Captain Craig, who had charge of the affair, stood on the dock across the little inlet where the boat was to take its initial plunge. At 22 minutes of 5, when all the obstructions had been cleared away, he gave the signal to "let her go," and as the last word left his mouth a sturdy Scotchman swung a broad ax in the air and with one blow cut the rope that held the blocking under the bow. This released the boat from its fastenings, and with a slight and almost imperceptible tremor she started rapidly down the greased ways towards her future element. Just as she started to leave terra firma Myrtle, the pretty little daughter of J. H. Southard, cracked a bottle of rare old wine over the bow and said, in a sweet, childish voice, "I christen thee Ann Arbor No. 1."

Almost before the words had left the mouth of the little christener there was a cracking, grinding, crunching noise, and then the big boat plunged bow first into the Maumee's turbid waters. Cheers after cheer went up from the 4,000 spectators, and a score of tugs in the vicinity tooted a welcome to the stranger. She rested in the water as gracefully as a duck, and was soon riding at anchor. This ended the ceremony and the crowd dispersed.

Ex-Gov. Ashley and his sons, Harry and James M., jr., were present as representatives of the Ann Arbor road. In addition to the large number of people at the ship yard there were over a thousand spectators on the opposite side of the river.

Description of the Boat.

This boat, which is one of two that are in course of construction, is designed especially and particularly to transport loaded cars across Lake Michigan in connection with the operation of the Ann Arbor road. The car transport service of 60 miles is attended with all the difficulties found in taking cars across the mouth of the Chesapeake bay and some difficulties peculiar to the situation. There are deep water and heavy seas, and in winter heavy running ice; consequently it was necessary to make the transfer with high and strong bows. The cars are loaded at the stern and the bow is decked for a distance of 50 feet back and rises 25 feet above the load line. The vessel is 267 feet long on deck, 52 feet beam and 18 feet molded depth. It is calculated to draw 12 feet of water and to have a displacement of 2,550 tons at that draft.

The vessel is built of oak with a solid frame up to two feet above the loading line and will have a belt of iron six feet wide to protect the planking from the ice. Extra deck beams are placed at the load line to prevent crushing in if the vessel is nipped in the heavy ice. She is strengthened longitudinally by a steel cord with diagonal steel ties every four feet running to the keel. The keelson is strengthened with a steel plate two feet wide and three-quarters of an inch thick. The vessel is so modeled as to ride over and crush down ice rather than cut it through.

There are twin screws in the stern and a single screw in the bow, which are worked by three horizontal compound condensing engines of 20 and 40 inch. diameter, and 36-inch. stroke. There are three boilers 10 feet in diameter and 11 feet long calculated for 125 lbs. of steam pressure. The vessel will be equipped with the latest appliances, such as steam steering gear, steam windlasses, electric lighting and an eccentric search light to insure safety in night navigation.

The cars will be secured by a method different from any heretofore practiced. There are four tracks, and there will be posts on each side of each car between which posts the cars will be wedged by keys, as shown in the cross section. These posts are connected longitudinally by heavy stringers, and diagonal tie rods will be put in place between each two cars. These tie rods will be provided with turnbuckles to properly adjust their length. By this arrangement any damage at any part of the structure will be largely localized. The cars will be held to the deck by four chains attached to the trucks, each with a turn-buckle. The vessel is expected to make a mean speed of 12 and a maximum speed of 15 miles an hour.

TRUE ECONOMY IN D....

"No woman practices true economy until she uses Diamond Dyes," says a writer in the 'Ladies' Companion.

Every dime spent for Diamond Dyes will save dollars. They color dresses, cloaks, feathers, ribbons, carpet rags, etc., any color. Even a child can use them, they are so simple. But do not risk your goods with any immitation; the Diamond are the only, original and reliable.

TARIFF REFORM BOOMING.

"A Public Office is a Public Trust."
You can eat these cakes until you bust.

The people seem to be trying to prove the truth of the above little pleasantry. They are eating so many of the new

TARIFF REFORM CAKES

That we can scarcely supply the demand. That's not to be wondered at, however, for they are fine cakes, the finest in the land, and whether you are a Tariff Reformer or not, you can't do better than to get a pound from your grocer.

A STRIKING FEATURE

Of our Carpets is the phenomenal figures at which we are selling them. There isn't any other name for these figures—they are phenomenal. They are figures that make figures of speech superfluous. It is almost always the case that, as the temperature goes up, prices go down. We are not responsible for a fall in prices. If you know anything of values, if you know what is as good as two good things usually are, if you know an unparalleled opportunity when it comes your way, you won't make any mistake about seizing this one and seizing it in a hurry.

HYMNS AND HYMN WRITERS.

Some Curious Facts—Old and More Recent Examples.

Beneath every estimate of a hymn lies the question, What is the criterion of a good hymn? or, more simply, How ought a hymn to be defined? St. Augustine's well-known definition is obviously too narrow, says the Quarterly Review. "A hymn," he says, "is a song with praise of God." That a composition which is not adapted for being sung is not a hymn is clear; but the limitation of the subject to the praise of God is a pedantic and arbitrary dictum, which experience has amply refuted. Many of our best hymns are in substance prayers; others are confessions of our faith, others the utterances of our memorations of blessings; others the voice of self-dedication; others stirring exhortations of mutual encouragements to perseverance in the Christian life and conflict.

In fact, there is no religious emotion common to the members of the body of Christ which has not been, or may not fitly be expressed in lyrical measures and made the burden of some song of the sanctuary. We say confidently, then, the limitation of the subject of hymns must be found elsewhere than in St. Augustine's narrow definition. That there are limitations is obvious. A hymn is poetry, not prose; a lyrical expression of emotion, not a versified fragment of dogmatic or moral instruction. Cutting up a didactic exhortation into metrical lines does not transform it into a hymn. Neither rythm nor rhyme could make the Thirty-one Articles proper to be sung to the glory of God.

Of the fault of ingenious obscurity instances may be found in the painfully labored versions of ancient dogmatic hymns: as in the verbal puzzle of the following lines, taken from the translation in "Hymns Ancient and Modern" of the "Pange lingua" of St. Thomas Aquinas:

"Word-made-Flesh true bread he maketh
By His Word His Flesh to be."

Other versions of mediaeval sequences even more unsuitable for congregational use might be adduced, pointing an apothegm which we have met with somewhere, to the effect that the deadest of all dead things is a hymn that has sprung out of dead theology.

An additional limitation of the subject matter of hymns arises from the fact that they are compositions for congregational use. By this they are distinguished from the sacred poetry which is suitable for private reading and devotion. Hymns must express feelings which may be, and ought to be, common to a whole assembly of Christian worshippers. A hymn which utters what only 1 per cent. of the congregation is likely to be feeling is self-condemned. The spiritual experiences which are peculiar to a few, the confessions of inward struggle which ought to be held sacred between God and the soul, have no legitimate business in the songs of the sanctuary; still less unreal, unhealthy, pessimistic trains of thought or sentiment.

Even Bonar's popular and in some respects touching hymn, "I Was a Wandering Sheep," sounds odd and incongruous when rolled forth from the lips of a large mixed congregation of old and young. Much worse is it to put phrases full of bitter contempt for a man's moral state, and for the world in which God has placed him, and of unnatural longing for death, into mouths which just before have been thanking God for mercies temporal as well as spiritual, celebrating his glory in his works, and asking to be preserved and strengthened for his service. Is it not a libel on the divine fashioner of our environment to sing with Watts:

"Lord! what a wretched land is this,
That yields us no supply;
No cheering fruits, no wholesome trees,
Nor streams of living joy!
Yet the dear path to thine abode
Lies through this horrid land;" etc.

And is it not equally shocking to invite the children of the great Father, their ears perhaps tingling with the bright injunction, "Rejoice in the Lord alway," to sing again from Watts, the odious strain:

"My thoughts on awful subjects roll,
Damnation and the dead."

What must a Scotch congregation have felt, in the days when each line was read out and sung separately, at being first summoned to lift up their voices in the self-contradicting assertion, "Our God shall come and He shall not," and then staggered by the equally paradoxical challenge, "Keep silence, but speak out?"

But while we have reason for thankfulness that our modern hymn-books are for the most part purged from gross faults of this kind, for which the perpetrators were less to blame personally than the raw taste of their age, it is better for serious reflection that there is still large room for improvement in the quality of the hymns that are offered as vehicles for the devotions of the congregation.

As we turn over the pages of even the best of our popular manuals with a critical eye to the merits of the compositions gathered into them from far and wide, what a distressing number we meet with to which their lack of spontaneity and fervor, their prosiness, flatness and literary baldness—in a word, to borrow Dean Stanley's phrase, their "pedestrian style" —give the look of being merely rhymed commonplaces and platitudes written to order, and certainly without any impulse of that "divine afflatus" which is the life of sacred as of all other poetry! Could any competent and impartial critic, we ask, exempt any one of our three great collections from the judgment that it would gain rather than lose by the excision of half its contents?

THE WOMAN'S WOMAN.

She Is the Pet of the Men and the Envy of Her Sex.

Every one knows what a man's man is, but very few have a thorough conception of the phrase "a woman's woman." In the case of the sterner sex the favorite is of athletic build, fond of good stories, more inclined to linger with the men over wine and cigars than to join the ladies in the drawing room; one that would rather hunt than dance, ride rough shod than be romantic, an, in fact, what his men friends call "a good all-round fellow" and the women consider a boor.

A woman's woman is very different, for she is usually a favorite with both sexes, says the Philadelphia Times. She is, however, one that enjoys a quiet chat with a girl friend as much as a pavilion or beach seance with the beau of the season. She does not ignore others less fortunate than herself, or become puffed up with vanity or self-satisfaction if she dances three times where another is asked only once, but would gladly share her admirers with those to whom the little attentions would seem so much.

She loves little children and does not take every opportunity to snub them. She is kind to the unfortunate and has a heart big enough to take in the whole world, shows a deference to the old and is purely and genuinely unselfish. Therefore, how could such a one help being not only the kind a woman admires, but likewise a favorite with the opposite sex. With all her perfections she is far from being "goody goody," for no woman deep in the recesses of her heart admires the "I want to be an angel" style of feminine morals, but likes a girl of the earth earthy; one not too bright or good for all the fun and pleasure of this life, yet who does not wish to monopolize the good things, but rather scatter them broadcast over the land.

She knows just when to say those little caressing speeches so dear to a woman's heart, and gives such sincere compliments that the recipient thinks at once "what a dear thing she is- so lovable, unaffected and truthful," and when the time comes and she marries some good man he will be utterly surprised to find how many women friends his wife has, and will realize more and more fully as the days go by that the girl thus beloved makes a model companion, far preferable to the popular flirt, who openly announces that she cares not a snap of her finger for women's opinion if men only prefer her.—Philadelphia Times.

SPIDER THREAD FOR TELESCOPES

The ingenious astronomer captures a common garden spider and places him on the end of a twig. Then he startles the spider, who immediately drops toward the ground, throwing out a thread as he goes.

The astronomer, when the spider has got a little way down, produces a double wire, on which he begins to twist the thread. The spider continues spinning and the astronomer goes on twisting the thread till he has enough thread for his purpose.

Nothing remains for him but to break the thread, and when he requires it unwind it from the wire as he would cotton twist.

British astronomers, it may be added, envy their confreres in Australia, for there is a spider which spins a thread of three cords; the British spider's thread contains five cords and is appreciably thicker.—London Tid-Bits.
